boy refused to sell and thanked God that he was not blind, deaf, and dumb. Later this boy was lead to be thankful for many things.

In spite of depression we yet have many blessings. First, we can be thankful that nature has been prolific in her yield of food for man and beast. All over the country cellars and storage rooms are bursting with their loads of eatables. Most people share in this bounty.

Second, we can be thankful for an open heaven over our head. Not only is God blessing us from the earth beneath our feet, but He blesses us from the heavens above our heads. He supplies the needs of our lower natures, and he giveth more grace for the building of noble characters. Gracious revivals are coming down upon the world in divers places. These are available to all people who will humble themselves and call upon the name of the Lord our God.

Northwest Nazarene College joins the people of the earth in thanksgiving for our many blessings. We believe that the spirit of thanksgiving is the antidote for many evils. Some things simply cannot be received with thanksgiving. One does not render thanks for the evils he takes into his life. The spirit of thanksgiving would eliminate the evil. "We praise Thee O God."

ASK AND IT SHALL BE GIVEN

Under the ministry of Rev. Ray Davis, God has again blessed N.N.C. with a gracious revival, less spectacular in its outward manifestations than some we have had, but characterized by a deepening that cannot but greatly influence the spiritual success of this school year.

For several days, through heart-searching messages, God seemed to deal primarily with Christian students. An all night of prayer, Monday night, resulted in an increased burden for the unsaved. The spirit of prayer changed classes into prayermeetings, and souls began to seek God in the dormitories, the chapel, and the church.

The Sunday evening service was climactic. The Holy Spirit made it easy for people to yield to God, and the altar was lined with hungry seekers. A spirit of freedom, unusual in the last service of a meeting, prevailed and God gave wonderful victory.

A number of students have been genuinely sanctified and have found that more abundant life in Christ.

Monday morning we tried to resume classes but our minds were filled with thoughts of the revival. We gathered in chapel at the regular hour, and, having heard the testimonies of some fifty who had received help during the meeting, we marvelled at the clearness and definite assurance Following the testimowith which each spoke. nies an invitation was given, and again the altar was filled with sincerely seeking hearts. Although our evangelist is gone and the revival proper is over, God is still with us. If the spirit of God continues to deal with hearts, mid-semester exams will be postponed and the revival will continue.

We feel that God has shown His loving wisdom in the type of revival He sent us. Through it we feel He has set a standard for the school year, a standard practical for every day living.

God's love has humbled and melted us together and put within us a fire of determination to make this a year filled with His blessing.

NOTES OF INTEREST

During the past two weeks Dr. R. E. GiImore has been holding a special revival meeting with Rev. L. A. Reed in our Nazarene church at Kansas City. God's blessing has been upon his ministry in a peculiar way and large crowds have come out to hear the old,old story which is ever new. Hardly a service has gone by without someone finding Christ.

On November the fourteenth Dr. Gilmore begins a tour of the Central Northwest district in the interest of the Life Saver Campaign.

The Thursday noon hour has been set aside as a time for fasting and prayer. Instead of going to their noon day lunch, many students and faculty members gather in the Chapel to earnestly seek God's blessing. How often we have proved that "Prayer changes things".

More than twenty students listened to the "election returns" in the parlor of the girls' dormitory, Tuesday night after church. Maps and charts were kept up to date. Even students take to politics.

Rev. Guy Sharp, Dean of Men, recently accepted the call to the pastorate of our Nazarene church in Newberg, Oregon. Dean Sharp came to Northwest Nazarene College nearly two years ago and since then has endeared himself to faculty and students alike. May God's richest blessing go with him as he goes to his new field of labor.

SPOTLIGHT ON SPORT

The final game of the men's doubles tennis tournament played Thursday, October 27, placed Andy Edwards and Bud Tinsley on top by a 6-1, 4-6, 7-5 victory over Glen (Doc) Nolte and George Thoreen.

The Olympian boys batted their way to the championship in Kittenball, Wednesday, November 2, when for the second time in succession they defeated the hopeful S. L. A. team.

The season for girls' volleyball came to a dramatic conclusion Thursday, November 3, when the theretofore rather passive A. D. P.'s exhibited a new flash of volleyball spirit and wrested the almost-certain championship from the confident Olympians in what was undisputedly the best girls' volleyball which N. N. C. has witnessed.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

Did you know that you can come to Northwest Nazarene College the second semester for $125.00 cash in advance? This will provide Board, Room and Literary Tuition. The Board of Directors have made this special rate hoping that it will enable many to attend that could not otherwise. Plan now to attend. Send in for your catalog and get your course planned. Do not delay when you can get a semester's work for such a low sum.

FORENSICS

The opening of another school year brings us again into the whirl of debate activities.

To say just why debating is the most outstanding of our extra-curricular activities would require an account of N. N. C. forensic history. Year after year the work of our debaters has resulted in ever widening influence, ever increasing recognition by schools that rank high in the nation. We take a just pride in the reputation gained by our teams; and we think it is not boasting to quote from a letter received from Stanford University recalling the occasion when Stanford met our team on our platform: "So hospitable was the reception given them and so hearty were their compliments to your debaters and to the management that this year the Stanford debate squad is clamoring for another such trip."

So in spite of economic depression the Forensic Society is carrying on at N. N. C. The new officers—Norman Oke, president; Leonard Eastly, vice-president; Rosa Vehrs, secretary; and Floyd Kinzler, treasurer—will make every endeavor to lead the society to success this year.

DR. POLING IN BOISE

The Commander and Cavalier quartets of Northwest Nazarene College furnished the music for a meeting of prohibition supporters recently held in the auditorium of the Boise high school. Dr. Daniel Poling, nationally known leader of the Allied Forces of America, gave an excellent address in behalf of national prohibition and the Eighteenth amendment. The concluding musical number was particularly appropriate as the Cavaliers sang their well known number, "God Will Defend You." MY IMPRESSIONS OF N. N. C. The first time I saw the campus of Northwest Nazarene College I said, "Why, I didn't know the Nazarenes had a school like this. I believe that I should like to go to school here."

My opinion of the school improved when I inspected the administration building, and especially the gymnasium. I noticed that the floor was larger than the ordinary gym floor and that the ceiling was high. It was well lighted and ventilated, and the showers were adequate.

THE 1933 OASIS

In this year when economy is a matter of necessity rather than of choice, N. N. C. students were faced with the possibility of going in debt for a year book. Many felt that to pay for a book of the usual quality would be out of the question; in fact, some students suggested that we simply give up the idea of having a 1933 Oasis, and turn the annual appropriation into the furniture fund. But, rather than to have a blank year in the annals of campus history, the student body voted to put out a more inexpensive and somewhat inferior book, to be printed on our own college press. Such a step in itself will mean economy, for the money ordinarily paid to outside printers will go back into the school We trust that this initial step may lead funds. to something greater in the future for our college press; and we rejoice that we shall have this year another one of those possessions dear to every N.N. C. student's heart-a picture gallery of all the old familiar faces enhanced by their best clothes, and a mass of hieroglyphics inscribed by everybody who asks us to write in his Oasis. And we believe, too, that no student will need to be ashamed of the '33 Oasis, even though it may not have as many pages or as extensive engravings as were in the pre-depression numbers. The staff is composed of:

> Theodore Martin, editor-in-chief Norman Oke, business manager Leonard Eastly, associate editor Edith Vahl, literary editor Maude Pershall, art editor Clyde Lowry, art editor Gordon Olsen, advertising manager Cleo Baird, snap shots Frances Haselwood, organizations and calendar Lois Goetze, editorial secretary Marjorie Lush, business secretary Professor Dooley, Professor Albert F. Harper and George Coulter, advisers

STUDENT ESTIM

I think that N. N. C. is a place where one may easily lose out as well as advance in Christian experience. Many young people come here to receive help and enjoy a Christian atmosphere. This may lead to disappointment. I do not believe we shall ever be able to enjoy a Christian atmosphere; we must work and help to create one. I believe that we must give to receive. If one looks at it in the spirit of work and service, I believe that N. N. C. will prove a great blessing to him.

Russell Brown, (Idaho)

ATES OF N.N.C.

The chapel services are perhaps the outstanding bright spots of my school life. I enter them with gladness and leave with a feeling of reluctance, particularly when they are dismissed early. It seems to me that a wonderful spirit of unity prevails when we convene in chapel, and God seems pleased to honor us with His spirit.

DR. WINCHESTER'S NEW BOOK

In recent years a number of books on the Life of Christ have appeared. The earthly ministry of our Lord has a wide appeal to the reading public and some of these books have sold into the hundreds of thousands. But we have been frequently disappointed to find the authors writing with a strong theological bias, either portraying Christ as purely human to the exclusion of His Divine Sonship or the reverse. Perhaps the most widely read of all modern lives of Jesus is one which pictures the mediaeval idea of Christ.

It is therefore especially pleasing to bring to your notice a new book by Dr. Olive M. Winchester, Vice President of Northwest Nazarene College, in which, with reverent scholarship, the life of Christ is presented as perfect God and perfect Man. Dr. R. T. Williams, General Superintendent of the Church of the Nazarene, in very warmly commending the book says: "Dr. Winchester has a keen insight into------all that Christ means for humanity."

The appearance of the book is excellent. Bound in rich blue with an especially fine frontispiece in colors showing the Head of Christ by Hoffman, it makes an ideal Christmas gift. The price is very reasonable indeed for a new book of 352 pages,—one dollar and twenty-five cents, postpaid. It can be obtained either directly from the Nazarene Publishing House, 2923 Troost Ave., Kansas City, Mo., or from the College Book Store, Northwest Nazarene College, Nampa, Idaho.
