NORTHWEST NAZARENE COLLEGE, NAMPA, IDAHO

Volume V Number 4

"DARK WIND" TO BE PRESENTED BY ALPHA DELTA PHI SOCIETY

"Dark Wind," a vivid drama, will be presented by the Alpha Delta Phi's Tuesday evening, November 20, at 8 p. m. in the chapel as the second athletic literary society program.

Esther Arneson and Alden Fisher will carry the leading parts. Other members included in the cast are Charlotte Zimmerman and Esther Laughlin.

Esther Arneson, as Nurse Grayson, plays the part of a head nurse on a transport freighter. She is hardened by years of grueling work. Alden Fisher portrays the part of Jerome Stevens, a young patient in the last stages of pneumonia.

Charlotte Zimmerman as nurse Bates is dependable and about 40 years of age, and Esther Laughlin assists in the role of nurse Fleming.

Several musical, choral and literary numbers will conclude the evening event.

Eileen Jensen, program chairman of the A.D.P. society is directing the play. Professor Ray, sponsor of the A.D.P.'s and Jerry Johnson, president of the society are assisting with the program.

Oasis Picture Day Observed Tuesday

Virginia Rickman, editor-in-chief of the 1946 Oasis recently announced in chapel that each student who wished to have his picture in the annual could make appointments for individual portraits.

Work was begun on these Monday, Nov. 4, by Mr. Eugene Garrett, a Nazarene, who owns and operates the Garrett's studio in Pasco, Wash. Margaret McKenzie and two of Mr. Garrett's staff members are assisting him; they will remain until all the necessary proofs are turned out.

Tuesday, Nov. 13, was the annual picture day, when all group pictures were taken for the Oasis. Large group pictures were taken by Mr. Garrett. Smaller groups and individual shots were made by Harold Daniels, Oasis staff photography editor and Betty Sondorff, assistant photography editor.

Future Teachers Attend Convention

Twenty-one Future Teachers of America and their sponsors journeyed to Boise last Friday, November 2, to attend an all day session of the Idaho District 3 Teachers' Convention which had as its theme, "Vocational Guidance."

High-lights of the day were the two morning sessions in which army personnel demonstrated their methods of visual teaching and Dr. W. Virgil Smith of the Seattle school system who addressed the group. Both of these meetings stressed the importance of making

Music Club Elects Reed as President

Following the student recital given in the Chapel auditorium on November 8, a group of twenty-eight people met in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Gish to elect officers for the Music Club which was recently organized. The officers are as follows: Marjorie Reed, president; Neva Newell, first vice president; Ruth Cronrath, second vice president; Carrol Allen, secretary; Elaine Carlson, treasurer; and Jeanne Durrand, press correspondent.

Marjorie Reed

Refreshments were served as Mrs. Swann read the Constitution and By-Laws and explained the duties of the six different committees. She also stated the object of the club, which is to aid and encourage musical education by sponsoring regular musicals and to unify musical interests and activities on the campus.

The college division of the club will be composed of active, associate, and honorary members. All students who are registered in music in high school or grade school are eligible for membership in the high school or junior divisions, respectively.

Powers To Hold Convention At N.N.C.

N.N.C. is to be host at the annual district Preachers' Convention held November 27, 28, 29 with Dr. Hardy C. Powers, Gen. Superintendent as special speaker.

Reverend J. A. McNatt, District Superintendent, will preside at the sessions, which will be held in the college chapel, morning, afternoon, and evening. The first service will be Tuesday evening, November 27 at 7:30. Dr. Powers will speak at all morning and evening sessions.

At the Wednesday afternoon session Dr. Corlett will give a paper on "Preaching to meet the need."

Others participating in papers and discussions will be Reverend Parker Maxey, Notus pastor, and Reverend Carl Marble, pastor at Homedale, both graduates of N.N.C. Also leading a missionary discussion will be Dr. H. A. Wesche, college physician and Miss Leona Aggola, senior student at N.N.C.

Art Department Announces Exhibit

For the first time the faculty of the art department will attempt an exhibit in the library from November 10 to 14. They plan to make this week Fine Arts week and will organize and form an Art Club.

Professor Finkbeiner, head of the department, hopes that this will enable the department to present the work throughout the year without having a special night exhibit. Since there are over 200 student hours given weekly in this department it would be impossible to show all the work in a night's exhibit.

Miss Mjaseth is in charge of commercial art and has one class in pastels. Dorothy Long and Audrey Spurbeck teach beginning sketching. Ruth Long supervises academy art, and Peggy Oldfield assists Professor Finkbeiner with pastels and creative chalk.

Students To Celebrate Peace Thanksgiving

Thursday, November 22 will be the first Thanksgiving Day of peace in the United States since 1941 and the first day of its type in Europe since 1929. Four years of war have brought the meaning of peace a little more forceably than before.

Verona Taves and Ed Dowd are at the head of the committee planning N.N.C.'s Thanksgiving dinner in the dining hall. Although the toastmaster for the occasion has not yet been appointed, other interesting plans are underway. Turkey is on the menu and will be served by the regular waitresses assisted by the fellows.

The college is looking forward to a good day on Thursday providing there is not a presidential decree deporting the date of Thanksgiving back a week or setting it ahead to the Fourth of July.

General Superintendent Hardy Powers.

Other district pastors will also be participating.

LAMBDA SIGMA PI'S TO PRESENT "THE SPIRIT OF N.N.C." FRIDAY

Bethel Fritch, L.S.P. program chairman.

Presenting a program built around the history and spirit of N.N.C., the Lambda Sigma Pi athletic literary society will give the second contest program of the semester, Friday evening, November 16 at 8 o'clock.

Bethel Fritch, L.S.P. program chairman, announces that the first portion of the program will feature pictures of the highlights of N.N.C. history with music and reading included.

A dramatization of "The Spirit of N.N.C." will conclude the program. Playing the leading part will be Harry Midby as a young preacher preparing for the mission field. Other members are Robert Miller, a theological student; John McCorkle as the stuttering Elmer who finally gets his date; Conway Elmer, Curtis, as prospective bus-furtwangler, a future teacher; nessman; and Talbot Eckel, a cynic who cares nothing about religion.

Bethel Fritch announced the chairmen of various committees as follows: Pauline Lang, ushers; Howard Thompson, lights; Mary Harper, publicity; Emerson Elmore, staging; Al Sullican, choir.

COMMITTEE SETS PLAY RATE SCALE

Plans for judging the athletic society contest programs have been revealed by the judging committee which includes the four program chairman of the societies and Miss Washburn, faculty chairman.

Judges for the programs are Reverend LeRoy Walker, pastor of the Methodist church in Nampa; Mrs. E. D. McKune, whose husband is pastor of the United Presbyterian church in Nampa; and Mrs. Carol Gish, wife of the assistant to the president, Dr. Gish.

Reverend Walker has written plays, some of which have been used at N.N.C.; Mrs. McKune and Mrs. Gish have both had experience as critic judges for plays and other literary events.

Judges are provided with a rating sheet upon which they may write notes and comments about each program. The final decision, however, will not be made until all programs are given. With the help of the rating sheets they may cast the ballot for first, second, third, and fourth places.

Librarian Tells New Book Titles

Miss Geneva Mumau, librarian, released the names of new books which have recently been received by the N.N.C. library. The list includes many old favorites as well as new publications.

Among those are Alcott, Little Women; Bernard, Dramatic Recitals; Douglas, The Robe; Jackson, Ramona; James, On Some of Like's Ideals; Judson, Basic Speech and Voice Science; Hamilton, Sound and Its Relation to Music; Hull, An Elementary Survey of Modern Physics; and Krikorian, Naturalism and the Human Spirit.

Other books received include Miller, Origins of American Revolution; Millikan, Mechanics, Molecular Physics, Heat and Sound; Mulock, John Halifax, Gentleman; Odum, American Social Problems; Phillips, Life and Labor in the Old South; Randall, Civil War and Reconstruction; Wagner, On Conducting; Webb, The Great Plains; and Ybarra, America Faces South.

Dept. Announces English Award

To stimulate interest in a high type of literary work, the English department is offering for the first time this year the Bertha R. Dooley English award.

Professor Bertha R. Dooley

This consists of a cash prize of $25 for the best creative writing in poetry or prose produced by any student enrolled in any English course. The work must be submitted to Professor Dooley, head of the English department on or before April 1.

"We hope the students will respond with a high type of literary effort that would be worthy of notice as a product of a liberal arts college" states Miss Washburn, professor of English.

The English professors urge all interested students to begin planning for this early.

According to a letter received by Dr. Corlett last week from Nazarene Headquarters, General Superintendent R. T. Williams is improving.

So You Think You're Busy!

It's always about this time of year that we hear students telling about how busy they are. Everyone has so much to do that he or she can't possibly make it until the end of the semester.

It seems to be the time when conscientious professors give quizzes, and demand themes, book reports, and papers. Probably a few classes are behind too, and assignments become more rigorous.

Then there are society demands. Contest programs and ball games indicate hard work and take a lot of time if performances are to be satisfactory.

For those who work for N.N.C. or have outside employment, the load is that much heavier. Furthermore, everyone has personal tasks to do. Dormitory rooms, for instance, are supposed to have at least a path cleared from the door to the bed.

There are other outside activities—music, publications, speech—all of these require time.

When one looks at the school calendar, he doesn't find much encouragement, either. Philharmonic, Orchestra, prayer-meeting, and Friday evening functions take most of the week-day evenings for many students. Soon the basketball season will start, and few will want to miss the games.

So what? There are several alternatives. Some have suggested quietly having a nervous breakdown; others have voted to eliminate all classes and take care of the social life; and, believe it or not, a few try to study.

Probably one should remember first that extra-curricular activities are exactly that—"extra." And the transcript is one product of a college education that is permanent. And we aren't advocating that anyone spend all of his college days studying books or pushing pencils. Some students, however, like to get their money's worth out of their education.

It seems that problems relating to extra-curricular activities are becoming more and more those of selection. As N.N.C. has grown, the variety of activities has also grown to accommodate the many interests that are represented in student life.

But all have discovered that having too many things to do lessens all-around efficiency. College organizations should not expect everyone to have an equal interest in every function; students should choose those activities which are most interesting and valuable for them and let other things go. Obviously, a student who was a program chairman, Oasis staff member, and a softball player could not take 19 hours, including, art, speech, and music, go out for debate, a cappella, and varsity basketball, have a regular outpoint, spend 25 hours a week working outside—and expect to emerge with any sanity worth mentioning. But college students have been known to endanger their health by attempting too much. It's well to remind ourselves occasionally that we aren't indispensable.

All of us, too, could profitably take lessons in organizing our time. It's still true that a lost moment is never regained.

There will be times, though, when the most perfect plans for the elimination and organization of activities will find us physically, mentally, and spiritually tired. Then it is that the N.N.C. motto reminds us to spend a little time on our knees. Dr. Corlett has told us that prayer relaxes and revives as nothing else will do. At N.N.C., prayer IS indispensable to a truly successful school year.

Thanksgiving Time

Now is the time of harvest past,
And the barns are stored with hay,
The spuds are dug from the open field,
And the pumpkins put away.

And the larder is filled to overflow,
With the vendor of honest toil,
And the people rest in their plentifulness,
Of the blessings of the soil.

The morns are cold with a frosty air,
And the biting winds blow free.
The leaves have fallen upon the ground,
Revealing the stately tree.

Warming themselves by their fellowship,
The animals stand at rest,
As the turkey gobbler, in triumph stands,
And beats his feathered breast.

And everywhere the throngs of men,
Give thanks to Mighty God,
On a day of peace and quietude,
As they feast and pray, and laud.

About Dick Foster

Are you acquainted with this "vet"? Or have you just seen him around and wished you knew more about him? His name is Dick Foster.

Dick attended the academy from 1939 to 1941. Soon after his graduation he enlisted in the regular army. He did not even wait for Pearl Harbor to spur him on.

It was not long until Dick was in the army Air Force, and that is where he was when he received his discharge papers last July. He was first engineer on a B-24 with the rating of T. Sergeant. Before the ink was fully dry on his discharge papers, Dick was feeling mighty brave, so he said that fatal "I do."

While in the service Dick really did see the world. He was stationed in Panama City, Havana, Cuba, and served one and a half years in the Pacific. During that time he was in eight major engagements. Dick was proud to say that his unit received three Presidential Citations. They also broke the world's record for the longest over-water flight.

Returning to N.N.C. this fall as a college sophomore, he is athletic director for the Olympians. Dick has been the man behind the lines that makes things click. For instance, he was the announcer from backstage for the amateur program.

SEEK YE FIRST

By Roy Howell

"And thou, Solomon my son, know thou the God of thy father, and serve him with a perfect heart and a willing mind: for the Lord searcheth all hearts, and understandeth all the imaginations of the thoughts: if thou seek him, he will be found of thee: but if thou forsake him, he will be found of thee: but if thou forsake him, he will cast thee off forever. (1 Chron. 28:9).

For forty years King David had, under God, guided the destiny of Israel. In this solemn admonition to his son, who was to succeed him, he feels something of the tremendous necessity of dependence upon divine guidance in the God-appointed office. Solomon was endowed with a high degree of ability to discharge in a worthy manner the duties thrust upon him. A great opportunity to serve was his. But Solomon failed to make the best of his opportunities; he missed much of the blessing that otherwise would have been his. The reason: he did not wholly follow the Lord.

Solomon saw the Israelitish nation come to the zenith of its power and influence. His own statesmanship was one of the great factors that made this possible. However, it was during his reign that the virus of corruption, political, moral, and spiritual, was introduced. Disruption within the nation soon resulted, until the divided kingdom eventually gave to total disintegration and the proud Hebrew nation was no more.

During his life-time Solomon amassed great wealth. He made gold so common that his stables were furnished with gold drinking receptacles for the horses. His wisdom was renowned. Three thousand and proverbs came from his lips and he wrote a thousand and five songs. As a biologist, he wrote of all types of life. Botany especially intrigued him, for he wrote of all manner of plant life from the hyssop that sprang out of the wall, to the mighty Cedars of Lebanon. Pleasure made such demands that his ingenuity was taxed to the limit in an effort to appease the changing whims of a court so influenced by paganism that they cared more for entertainment than the knowledge of the true God. If anyone could find real satisfaction in a life of pleasure, it should have been Solomon. But in retrospect his final lament was, "Vanity, vanity, all is vanity."

How different it might have been had he sought first the will of God and then followed that will with whole-hearted sincerity.

ATOMIC STUFF

There has been "much ado" about atomic warfare. From the wealth of material that has been written on the subject, Time Magazine has abstracted twelve main thoughts which follow.

1. Atomic energy will be used more extensively for military than for peacetime purposes.

2. No military or scientific defense can be expected.

3. The only practical defense idea would involve breaking up cities. This would cost 250 billion dollars.

4. In the future we can expect much larger atomic charges to be used. Literally hundreds of ways can be devised to carry them to the doorstep of the enemy. These range from rockets to wardrobe trunks.

5. Atomic weapons could kill 20% of a nation's people in an hour. No nation has ever lost more than 10% of its people during any war.

6. Engineering problems, not actual secrets, prevent the use of atomic bombs by other nations.

7. Since it is a future possibility that atomic weapons can be made from more common materials, all major powers will have access to the necessary raw materials.

8. Any nation that can afford to maintain a large army and navy could easily afford atomic weapons.

9. Since such a small quantity of charge is required to work great havoc, outproducing an enemy is not necessary.

10. By multiplying the advantage of surprise, the atomic weapons increase the incentive of aggressor nations.

11. International control would be impossible to administer since nations could easily evade control.

12. While publishing research data would minimize distrust, it would be impossible to control national and international research.

Episcopal Sigh

Archbishop-Regent Damaskinos heaved an Episcopal sigh of relief after a month-long search for a Premier for Greece. Panayotis Kanellopoulos, the new premier, who has served for a year in the exile government as vice-premier, will serve at least until the national elections in mid-January.

Revival Echoes

"Jesus saved me."

"I'm glad to testify for my Lord tonight and praise him for taking me back."

"Last night the Lord saved me and now I am a candidate for sanctification."

"I have that peace in my heart that the world never gave."

"Thank God," I know now that I am saved."

"The Lord has called me to the missions, and I am going."

"Christ has been very near to me during these meetings and my only desire is to go all the way with Him."

"Yesterday morning during the chapel service Christ saved me. I thank him for all he has ever done for me. I mean to go all the way for I want the best there is in salvation, and I won't be satisfied with less."

"I am determined to go home and show my friends what it means to be a Christian."

"I'm so happy I can't talk."

If God intends that we should talk more than we hear, he would have given us two mouths and one ear.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

I noticed those portraits on our chapel walls as soon as I came to N.N.C. I liked them at once. I had been a Nazarene for several years, and I was able to tell some of my friends who had been here a year or two about those parraits in the chapel. I had met all but one of the people, and knew something of their Christian influence.

I should be very unhappy to see their pictures taken away from the chapel. It is true you don't see such pictures on the walls of other colleges and churches; but, do we dare to be different? These are the "ivy on our walls"—the great hearts and minds who have given us the rich heritage we have. The fault is not having them there, but in not introducing them cordially to every newcomer on the campus. If they could be featured in chapel once each semester, or be presented from time to time in the CRUSADER, I believe our student-body would love and appreciate them as we do who knew them.

Why not prepare a little folder telling of the lives of these saints and of their contribution to Christian youth and N.N.C.? Why not have folders available to visitors in the chapel as well as to regular students?

Please don't let them tear the ivy off our walls because it is old-fashioned.

CAMPUS CONNOISSEUR

Rubber boots, bandannas and moisture-repellent coats have all but obscured the identity of the coeds and collegians this week. . . . although no one has bothered to go around looking under the parkas and scarfs of those queer shapes tearing around the campus, we assume they are students.

The student body has suddenly become comb-conscious after all these weeks, thanks to Ricky and her Oasis cameraman. . . . most pathetic story of the week is that a freshman girl, who after a long struggle with her hair and eyebrows, at last concluded the ordeal by having her picture taken. When she went to get her proofs, there followed a long, low moan, while she incoherently babbled, "But I couldn't have looked like that; honestly I couldn't."

It seems that she really COULDN'T have looked like that, for a hasty check revealed she's been handed the proofs of some other student.

Since the weather has herded everyone indoors, the most popular sport now days is participating in round-the-counter symposiums at K.K. At a recent coffee session, indulged in by a bevy of girls and three or four men, the talk turned to the caprice of feminine fashions.

"But girls shouldn't go in for such extreme fads. . . . they're supposed to dress to please the men." "And just, who," inquired Evelyn Day acidly, "has a man to please anymore?" She immediately ducked under a coffee cup to evade the loud chorus of "Speak for yourself, Day," that followed her query. . . . which seems to indicate that perhaps these aren't such hard times anymore.

Since we last went to press, the Taves-Hempel engagement has become common knowledge. . . . one can't help commenting that the marriage rate among Home Ec majors always seems to elude these Economic cycles we hear so much about, but remains at a constant high. . . . Paid advertisement.

Today being the official Armistice day (not the day you read this, but today), we've decided to cease hostilities with this typewriter and mingle with our fellow men—and women, of course, which brings us to "thirty for today."

Smith Defines Poetry To Speech Students

Previous to his evening performance, Professor Joseph F. Smith, who read "Western Star" Tuesday evening, November 13, spoke to a small group of advanced speech students.

In the afternoon session the noted speaker expressed the opinion that many of us get 'fed up' on poetry simply because we learn to read so badly. Our present day system of teaching children to read is poor, according to Professor Smith.

Professor Smith's definition of great poetry is: "A new idea which brings in and fuses things together into a new experience."

Two lines of poetry Professor Smith describes as hitting him with the impact of a sledge hammer. When he read them, they made him think. He's never forgotten them.

'For this is the greatest treason To do the right thing for the wrong reason.'

Mr. Smith emphasized that the important point in presenting a reading or a song is to sell your idea rather than yourself. He'd rather have said of him by a departing audience, "He's right", than "He's marvellous."

Orrin Hills

WHO'S WHO

Returned to N.N.C. this year is Orrin E. Hills, senior, recent electee to Who's Who. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hills of Twin Falls, Idaho.

Asked about his election to Who's Who, Orrin commented, "I feel greatly honored to be chosen though very surprised."

Prominent in the sports life of N.N.C. in the last two years, Orrin now heads the Olympian athletic-literary society, plans to make the college varsity again this year, and is still seeking time to study his lessons.

He graduated from Twin Falls high school and then came to N.N.C. to work toward a major in his chosen field. He plans to teach mathematics and do coaching in high school.

Orrin says: "N. N. C. has greatly helped me spiritually, socially, physically, and scholastically, and (in speaking of the faculty) I believe that one of the finest assets to any school are Dr. Corlett and Dr. Gish; personally, they have helped me beyond measure."

HI-LITES

Trojan Hoopsters Begin Practice

Saturday, October 27, was the first basketball practice for the academy boys. With much enthusiasm and a good turnout the Trojans are well on their way to show what they can do this year. In all, there have been six practices under the direction of Coach Monty Lee.

All the boys interested signed the state eligibility list. The principal's office has just received from the Idaho High School Athletic Association an approval certificate authorizing the N.N.A. team to compete in private games in the state of Idaho.

With the addition of several new players to some of last year's lettermen, plans are being made for a busy and successful season.

HERE THEY ARE

This week we are starting a column on outstanding students of N. N.A. Featured this week are Gene Nelson and Lyndol Pullen, senior and junior class presidents, respectively.

Gene Nelson

"Cowboy" Nelson, we call him. Well—he says he rode a horse at least once in the wide open spaces of Livingston, Montana.

This is his third year here and he likes it better all the time. He says, "I like the spirit here, and the N.N.A. constitution is the best improvement yet."

Our hero is crazy about—steaks piled with Heinz 57 steak sauce and certain gal with initials M. "Peg" S.

He has no pet peeves; he loves life, and his main comment on himself is "a purty swell fellar."

Lyndol Pullen

When you hear a serenade in H minor, with "that" special touch and your eardrums begin to pop while your brain aches in agony, don't give it a thought. It's just Lyndol "Push" Pullen banging the ivories.

Beside him will probably be a bunch of celery on which he incessantly crunches. He has a mania for celery as he does NOT have for "silly Freshman girls."

Lyndol is still blushing because he spilled his pineapple milkshake right in Marilyn's lap on Sadie Hawkins night. Too bad. . . and on his first date.

WELCOME

To Esther Kincaid, senior high student who was an Academy visitor last Monday.

To Betty Jane Ryan from Decatur, Alabama who is returning to the Academy after graduating from the N.N.C. Grammar School a year ago.

"We've heard and read some good reports from Nampa through Rev. Johnson and the "Messenger". In fact business is a little too good, isn't it? We hear Nampa's pretty well crowded out. And that is the thing we're concerned about now. We want to start second semester, but we wonder if we'll be able to find a place to stay.

"September 30, 1945 was the date I was discharged at Ft. Lewis. For the last three weeks, and until I come to school, I have been, and will be working for the Vancouver Bus Company.

SLAs NOSE OUT WIN OVER LSPs TO BECOME SOFTBALL CHAMPS

In the championship boys' softball game, the SLA's eked out a slender victory over the LSP's on November 8 by a 11-10 score. After the losers had staged a sensational rally in their half of the last inning to tie the score, the SLA's came back to get the needed run and went on to win first place. The winning run came in after two men had been walked. With two out, Blum lined out a single to left to score the runner with the run that won the game. The game was featured by hard hitting on the part of both teams with Morgan of the SLA's and Robertson of the LSP's contributing home runs to the scoring.

Members of the choir under the direction of Doris Rodman are Lyndal Pullen, Allen Bennett, Merle Bozarth, Roscoe Pershall, Alden Fisher, Don Peerman, Harold Daniels, Lois Gardner, Lillian Nutt, Doris Rodman, Afton Smith, Ardeth Grover, Wanda Davis, Neva Newell and Mary Harmon.

learning functional. Dr. Smith said that the time to teach a pupil anything was after he had definitely felt the need of it.

Prof. Laughlin, principal of the academy, was one of the speakers at a panel discussion in the afternoon. The topic of the panel was, "Teacher Retirement and Pension." It was pointed out that Idaho is the only state in the union that does not have a teacher retirement plan.

Critic teachers and F.T.A. members who attended the convention were: Mrs. Laughlin, Prof. Laughlin, Miss Allison, Carolyn Pyrtle, Mary Popejoy, Bethel Fritch, Olive Lawrence, Eileen Jensen, Verona Taves, Eunice Powell, Anne Trout, Maizie Bellamy, Faith Cozad, Lu-

ADP Nine Triumphs Over Oly Players

Called on account of darkness, the game between the ADP's and Oly's resulted in an A.D.P. win by a 9-7 score November 7. The Olys took a 6-3 lead in the first inning but with Roseboro pitching some fine ball and getting good defensive support, the ADP's slowly pecked away at the lead and at last went on to win. The outstanding point of the game which settled the race for third position in the softball competition was the fine spot pitching by Roseboro. In the fourth inning, with the bases loaded, he struck out two men on base, El9-Theyl- r Cee men to retire the side and in the last inning with two men on base, he forced the batter to hit into an unassisted double play, executed by Mishler, third baseman.

Wesche, Laughlin Lead Girls' Tennis

Wesche puts it over

Tuesday afternoon, November 13 found the game between the champions unfinished because of the weather. Wesche battled to a hard-fought victory in the first set by a score of 8-6. The second set, unfinished, finds Laughlin leading 4-2. Should Laughlin win, the tie will be played off in a third set. If Wesche triumphs, she will win first place for the L.S.P.'s.

In the other game played Tuesday, Esther Laughlin, A.D.P. beat Gerrie Gaines, S.L.A. Earlier games found Wesche, L.S.P., winning over Alley, S.L.A., and Claraee Laughlin, Oly, trouncing Donna Siefarth, A.D.P.

This gives the A.D.P.'s fourth place and the S.L.A.'s third, with first and second still a draw between the Oly's and L.S.P.'s.

SLA's DEFEAT OLYS IN GRID TANGLE

S.L.A.'s gained a hard earned victory over the Oly's by defeating them 6-0 in the football game which was played in the snow November 9.

Both teams appeared to be evenly matched until the S.L.A.'s got their score on a long pass from Sporleder to Dale midway in the second half. The cold and snow caused the passing attack of both teams to bog down thus slowing up the action of an otherwise fine game. Most of the playing took place around the center of the field with the S.L.A.'s getting in position to score by a 15 yard penalty for tripping against the losers.

SPORT SLANTS

By ORRIN HILLS

How many can guess what the talk around the campus has been the past few days? I will tell you—Basketball.

Students have been asking me when our first basketball game will be. Will we have a good team, etc; I can tell you this much. We should have a good team with five returning lettermen here along with those from the junior varsity as well as the new students. The returning lettermen include Sporleder, Daugherty, Sullivan, Hempel, and Hills. Also, I have been hearing rumors that some of our ex-ball players will be back second semester.

How many have been warming up for yell leader tryouts? The time of election is just around the corner, so better get started. I'll let you in on a little secret, if you're interested in winning the election. We want originality, zip, and pep!!

I'm sure you will all be interested to know that we are planning for a pep band. I don't believe anyone really knows the value of a band until he has actually been out on the basketball floor in a game. There's something about the spirit and enthusiasm it puts in you that one can't explain. It helps spectator spirit, too.

With the softball schedule over, we find the L.S.P.'s and Olympians about to play off the tie for first place in the girls' division. The S.L.A. boys defeated the L.S.P. boys for the championship. The game was close and hard fought; fellows were handicapped by the cold weather. Softball should be played in the early fall instead of the middle of November.

Football has really developed into a mad scramble for first place, but the Oly's have a firm grip on the cellar position. The up and coming L.S.P.'s defeated the unbeatable S.L.A.'s last Friday 6-0. That throws the lead into a deadlock with the A.D.P.'s. If the L.S.P.'s should upset the A.D.P.'s the S.L.A.'s will be in possession of first place.

This is poor weather for tennis, which should have been played at least a month ago. But since they haven't we find Wesche, L.S.P. has defeated Alley, S.L.A. Laughlin, Olympian, defeated Siefarth, A.D.P. in the girls' singles.
