Bertha Dooley Award Presented Soon

"The Bertha R. Dooley English Award will be presented at the commencement exercises," stated Miss Dooley recently, when interviewed.

The Award is one given each year to the one person making the best advance in literary composition. The articles, submitted before the May 1 deadline, have been judged and the winner selected.

Thank You

The old expression that it "takes a heap o'living in a house to make it called home" is what I wish to extend to you as a student-body for the climactic statement of my work this semester. I will revise it to read, "It takes a heap o'working to make a paper fit to read." This I have tried to do, not for personal glory, but to make the N.N.C. Crusader a better paper and one which could be representative of the college.

I realize that there are many points on which I have not done as well as could have been expected, supposing that conditions were all favorable.

To and for the staff I wish to say "thank you" and to commend them on an excellently performed job. It can be beaten though, and that should be the aim of next year's staff. Progress cannot be static, nor can our paper afford to rest on its laurels.

I am sure that next year, The N. N. C. Crusader, under the direction of Miss Doris Rodman, will progress even further and give you a paper even more like you desire to see. Such things as paper quality, cuts, etc., will have to be worked out according to the budget allotted.

Privileges And Thanks

Another school year is about to close. It has been full of gracious privileges and opportunities. The activities have been rich and varied; the associations have been helpful and beneficial; the spiritual atmosphere has been stimulating and challenging. The statistics have written a new high mark for N. N. C. We bow our heads in the presence of God and thank Him for His continual guidance and blessing for truly it has been the spirit of God that has given us this wonderful year.

We are glad each of you has had the opportunity of attending a holiness College. You have received better rounded education than you could have in any other type of school. You have come in contact with personalities who are consecrated and devoted to a task as well as to God. You have sat in classes and chapel services in which prayer has been offered for you and your problems. You have had the opportunity of feeling one of the best spiritual atmospheres anyone has ever come in contact with. You have been blessed in many more ways and we are thankful that you have been with us. We hope that most of you will be able to return in the fall of the year.

One of the sad things of the ending of school is that we say goodbye to the Seniors who are graduating. You have been with us one or more years and we have enjoyed your association and presence on the campus. We wish you well in your future work. We are praying for you and for God's guidance and blessing upon you. We hope that you will remember to pray for us and always be the same loyal booster for N.N.C. that you are now. You leave us as a student, but you join that ever increasing number of members of the Alumni Association who are helping to build a greater N. N. C. We will welcome you back to the campus any time you can come and will be glad to hear from you at any time.

Your President,
Lewis T. Corlett

Our Future America

By HOMER CLOUGH

When we think about our present America we must not become discouraged in this "land of plenty" the order of the day seems to be discouraged. In this "land of plenty" the order of the day seems to be strikes. Shortages of materials and confusion. Were we confined to this without hope for a plan of a better America the picture would be dark. But youth has never been quite content to resign to his fate without, first, a good scrap. Neither shall we be defeated. We must meet the challenge of a troubled nation and an unrestful world. During the past few years the rights of individuals have justly taken second place to the demands of a nation at war and now to a starving world. But a freedom loving people will not long endure the red tape and dictation of Washington. Our future America will see a return to individualism. This does not mean we hope for a time of lawlessness, but a return to the normal way of life where a man may pursue a course that will bring peace, security, and happiness to him and his community. It might be hard to see how one person can do much about the situation but each in his own sphere of influence and community is ours if we seek and do that which we know is right.

Church Militant

Japan's Needs

Kagawa, famed Japanese liberal sends a message to America. He stated the needs of Japan as, "First we need prayer, Secondly, send missionaries who can serve — we can't use a bunch of social workers. Thirdly, send Bibles and testaments in Japanese."

Wisconsin's Gambling Churches

With the departure of Roman Catholic Cardinal Stritch from Milwaukee gambling interests started pushing a law legalizing gambling machines in church basements, parish houses, etc. The "take" from such machines was supposedly to be given to an "elevated" use. A commentator in Christian Century with which this columnist corroborates asks if the ministers and churches haven't yet learned that money thus gained isn't more destructive in the lowering of community respect and ethical influence.

Iowa Catholics

Roman Catholics in Iowa have recently been much in the news. A new co-adjustor bishop has been recently installed at Sioux City, and fifteen priests of Dubuque archdiocese have been vested with the monsignori purple.

Here and There ...

Religious News Service reports that Hungarian Protestant ministers are living on the equivalent of one American dollar a month. . .

The Archbishop of Canterbury in an address to the Federal Council of Free Churches stated that "Reunion, when it comes, will be reunion of (not with—Ed.) the Church of England." Similar expressions in regard to the Protestant Episcopal Church in the U. S. come from the Dean of Washington Cathedral.

The Salvation Army's Grand Council will meet at Sunbury-on-Thames to elect a new general. Since the general, once elected has full control, this is an important election.

Swiss-Vatican Nunciature

Swiss official quarters have indicated that a Swiss embassy will not be established at the Vatican. The Swiss Protestant People's Alliance is said to have strongly opposed this move by the national parliament. There will also be popular resentment against the sending of a papal nuncio from Rome to Berne.

With this issue this columnist signs off for the school year. Remember my fellow ecclesiologists that just because the Crusader is not coming out for about four months, church news still will be popping hard and fast.

Service Men

By GERRIE GAINES

Thus far in this column there has been information of those service men and veterans who are living. Therefore, it is only right that this last column be dedicated to those young men who lost their lives in the recent war.

Friday morning David Messenger prepared and presented a memorial service in chapel. The organ prelude was furnished by Liberty Earnest with Professor Sutherland giving the invocation and scripture reading. The entire congregation sang the National Anthem and "America The Beautiful" was rendered by the male quartet the "Kings Messengers".

A poem, "And God was There" was interpreted by Miss Geraldine Gaines. A solo, "God Bless America" was offered by Mr. Warren Franklin, following which, the history of the service days of the casualties was given. Rex Stanton represented Wayne Stinnett; Alfred Sullivan, George Reinholdt; Warren Franklin, Lyle Mosteller; and David Messenger, Everett Pool. Others mentioned were Carmen

SEEK YE FIRST

Be A Friend Of Jesus"

By Alfred Sullivan

To be a friend of Jesus with all of its deep rich meaning is a most worthy ambition.

The Jesus way of living is sane, practical, beautiful and supremely satisfactory. Out of this way of living come the issues of life. The meeting of these issues produce happiness and great living.

The friends of Jesus so thoroughly believe His way of living that they purpose to ask themselves at every point each day, "What would Jesus do?" They believe that this means great, straight-forward manhood in the everyday affairs of life and beautiful responsive womankind fitting into the affairs of common things.

They believe in having the ideals, spirit and purpose of Jesus at all times. Their attitude toward all things and persons will be that of the Master. They believe that the Jesus way of living is supremely natural. There is a place for laughter and play as well as for toil and achievement.

The friends of Jesus should never worry. They "know whom they have believed and are persuaded that He is able to keep that which they have committed unto Him against that day." They do only those things which they are sure will please the Master. They choose associates who love and cherish His friendship. They never go where they think the Master would not care to go.

Jesus' friends enjoy fellowships with one another. The chief joy of their relationship is praying with and for others. They enjoy telling how much they appreciate Him and him not.

how wonderfully He leads and guides. Their conversation is about the things He does for His friends.

The friends of Jesus are distinguished by their lack of interest in things which He would not be interested in. To know His interests one must live close to Him.

The friends of Jesus are so much with him that they become like Him. Kindness, humility, and consideration are their attributes.

Tenderness, sympathy, and understanding are found to be characteristics of those who live near-Him.

The friends of Jesus find supreme delight in the things that He is trying to put across. They are so loyal and true to their wonderful Friend that all the consuming desire with them is the program of Jesus. They find that fellowship with Him is their supreme joy. He never leaves nor forsakes. They sense a hush because everything with them is made sacred by His blessed presence. This friendship with Jesus must be sustained by unbroken contact with the Master. This gracious contact with our Savior can be maintained by: 1. Regular daily prayer, 2. regular taking of spiritual food, 3. regular perfect obedience at any cost, 4. instant complete response to the Spirit's guidance, 5. witnessing of His peace and power.

The world at home and abroad is crying out, "Sirs, we would see Jesus". Let us cultivate His friendship so that we may introduce Jesus, our friend, to all who know him not.

By PEGGY OLDFIELD

Students of N.N.C. in previous schools to Principal and keep all records of, about 20 girls to try to mother and teach a few things to, Dist. WFMS work to take care of, etc. We are not asking for pity, but just trying to explain in a measure why we need help so badly.

"Carl has gone down to a place today where we wanted to open a new work and build a church—but the farmer who owns the big farm down there will not agree to give us permission to build on his farm. He calls the natives baboons and says we are crazy for trying to teach them anything. He sort of makes slaves out of them, and they must work his big farm for him. They have begged and begged us to come down and build a church and have a school, but we of course can't do it without the permission of the owner of the farm. He finally told us we might go down once a month and have a medical clinic with the people—but when we went last month no people showed up. He had them all at work. So today Carl has gone to see if he might talk to the man again. It is terrible to think that a human being would take that attitude. Just think of the responsibility on his soul—if not allowing people who are hungry, the privilege of hearing the gospel."

Richardson and James P. Callahan.

As Rex said, "These fellows did not give their lives willingly. They may have fought willingly, but each one planned to come back home."

Following a memorial address by Dr. Corlett, Ed Dowd, student-body president, presented a plaque to be placed in the hall of the administration building. This plaque will have engraved on it the names of those N. N. C. students who gave their lives for their country.

Reverend Riley prayed the benediction followed with taps by Virgil Va! and Wayne Johnson.

"Our Senior Class Of 1946"

Appreciation

To express even a limited appreciation of all and for all that we have received while attending N. N. C. would be an utter impossibility. For those things which we now realize are ours because of N. N. C., and for the things which only eternity can reveal we gratefully say, "Thank you."

There have been many students before us who have felt the impact of the spirit of this institution. We sincerely hope and pray that scores of others shall be blessed with the privilege of coming to our campus to develop character, acquire culture, and learn more of Christ.

We pledge that we will do our part in praying for and persuading others to continue this "oasis" in the desert.

If we are not all that you had hoped, we would be when we left you, don't disparage of trying with others.

For the accomplishments of today and our ambitions in the days to come we sincerely, gladly, and to the best of our ability, attribute all compensation to N. N. C.

- Sincerely, Alfred Sullivan.

Spiritual Challenge

By ELVIN ERNEST

Before the Senior class of '46, a world moves into a new era of progress. Scientific development within the past year has caused the achievements of a generation ago to fade into insignificance as compared with those of the modern day. Few today are so pessimistic as to believe that the end has been reached.

Far exceeding the demands of the material world is the Spiritual challenge. If each senior were to be questioned, it is believed that each one would respond as did the Psalmist when he said, "Yea, I have a goodly heritage." NNC was established by men and women who believed that the needs of the world might be met only as consecrated young people were trained and prepared to go out in the service of the Master.

Down through the years the administration has felt that education alone is insufficient—there must be Spiritual preparation and the development of a Christlike character. Devout Spiritual leaders have passed on to each class a rich spiritual influence. Their desire in each individual is that as he faces his occupation, he will first of all meet the spiritual challenge. It is not enough to be said of graduates of NNC that "He is a genius in business" or that "She was certainly a success in the teaching profession." Much more is expected of this class. What about making it your first business to serve God, getting to work in that local church this summer and helping carry the load, and cooperating with the church in general with regard to the principles it upholds? Can any business be more noble than the business of serving God?

The testimonies of the men who have returned from the bitter experiences of war bear out the statement that the greatest solution to the world situation is Christ. The Senior class of this year can bring laurels to NNC in the fullest meaning of the term only as they go out to preach deliverance from sin whether by precept or example, and to live victorious Christian lives.

Our Faculty

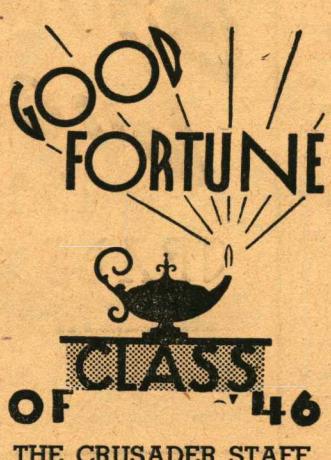

By MARIE BRUNER

I came to Nampa for the first time in 1940 and to the campus of N. N. C. This was a thrill to me in many ways, but the most outstanding has been the thrill of having Christian teachers.

They are all alike in one respect; that is, they personally know and serve our God. There's no one, even in their busiest moments, who will not help a student or that will not pray for the school and students.

A few of their differences, for instance, are in stature. Observe Miss Davis beside Rev. Riley. Their coloring is different—why there's Prof. Ray's black curly hair and Prof. Wilson's, shall we say, blonde. Their knowledge is different, now I ask you who could enjoy an organ solo by Prof. Tilliotson, our mathematician, as much as we do Mrs. Swann's? Prof. Janosky knows his "business" but that's not running the library with the efficiency of Mrs. Corlett. I have learned to like Shakespeare because of Miss Dooley's enlightening comments. Dr. Bower's classes have been an inspiration to me to learn more of God's word for my own personal use.

Why have I said all of this? Because as I leave N.N.C. this semester it is with a greater thrill for having had the privilege of studying under our Christian Faculty. May we in the days to come live up to the ideals they have held up for us.

"WHO WE ARE"

By MARY HARMON

For the past two weeks you may have noticed certain dignified looking personages strolling about the campus in mortar-board and gown. Just in case you might be interested, we are taking this occasion to give you a little insight into the kind of people who have been attracting all of this attention.

If you were to peer beneath those stately gowns, you would find twenty ambitious future teachers of America. You would also find that none of these dignitaries are or hope to become ministers of the Gospel. Six more of our number have devoted their college years to preparing themselves for services on the various mission fields. Seven already are or have been diligently preparing themselves to be preachers wives, while four nurses have been able to complete their college work this year with our class.

In a more general way we might add that no matter what earthly goals the members of our class are striving toward, without exception we are pressing "toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

"Our Plans"

By GERALDINE GAINES

In our senior class, our plans are diverse and distinguished for the summer. We hope that these plans do not become extinguished. We are anxious to graduate but reluctant to leave our many friends of the past four years.

For the summer our plans are: Al Sullivan — Class president, graduate work in the University of Oklahoma.

Ed. Dowd—student body president, make preparations in Kansas City for his seminary work next fall.

Peggy Oldfield, hunt bugs for the government.

Dave Sullivan, indefinite. Leona Aggola, as straight to China as possible.

Dorothy and Ruth Long—Instructors of art at the Twinlow Camp.

Hester Frazier, summer school. Audrey Suprbeck, home on the farm. Ed Haldy, assistant pastor of North Nampa. Verona Taves, home for the summer to keep up a busy correspondence course. Bebeth Fritch, get married and live in Nampa. Mary Popejoy, home to Fargo. Willard Midby, build houses in Nampa. Mary Harman, visit her sister in Albuquerque, New Mexico. Nest Beck, summer school. Elvin Ernest, summer school and pastoral work. Mr. Howell, pastoral work in Boise. Faith Conrad, keep house. Jessie Phillips, trip to Chicago. Eileen Jensen, summer school. Orrin Hills, summer school. Eunice Powell, have fun. Carolyn Pyrtle, University of Washington. Mrs. Rogers, pastorate. Mr. and Mrs. Zink, keep busy in Nampa. Marie Bruner, do her duties. Ardith Grover honeymoon in the mountains! Geraldine Gaines, home to Corpus Christi, Texas.

Our Literary Brains

By BOB SPENCER

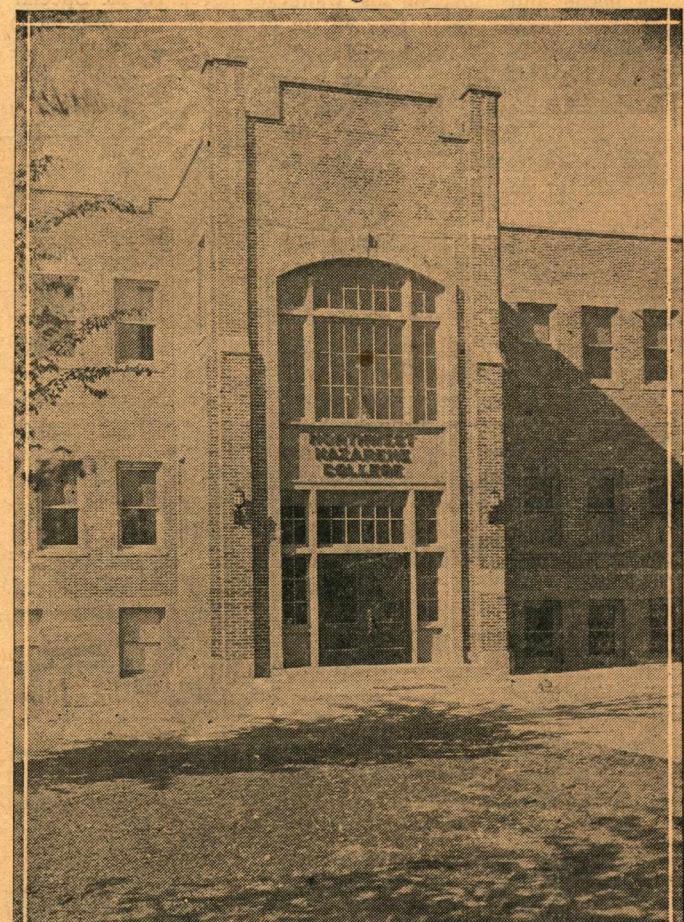

It would seem that by the time students are classified as college seniors, pushing a pencil around on a sheet of paper should produce some most remarkable results—which is exactly the case in regard to the senior class of '46, for never has one seen the intricate doodling that these black clad collegians are capable of producing.

We have produced our share of poets, although unsympathetic critics and Miss Dooley would call them composers of doggerel or verse. Ed Dowd has left his footprints on the sands of rhyme with a number of lengthy contributions, leading us to believe that perhaps someday our bookshelves may contain a volume that is not a funny-book, but still was produced by a member of the class of '46.

Peggy Oldfield has been known to make a couple of words rhyme, if by so doing she could form a groan-producing play on words, and even Donna Siefarth has composed such literary gems as: "Beware of the dog;"

Senior Athletes

By ORRIN HILLS

Al Sullivan—L.S.P.—Al likes basketball, baseball, softball, volleyball, tennis, and golf. He has been here at N.N.C. for two years and played Varsity Basketball during those two years. He also likes golf especially well and took the Intramural championship.

Orrin Hills—Oly—Orrin is a three year letterman in Varsity Basketball and has been the top scorer for the last two years. He also likes to play softball, football, volleyball, baseball, track, and tennis.

Howard Thompson—L.S.P.—You know, "That little flash!" Howard is a returned veteran. He was manager for the basketball team for two years but also likes to participate in sports very much. He plays softball, football, basketball, baseball, and tennis.

Howard Zink—L.S.P.—Howard is also a returned veteran and one of those "solid linemen". He is a very good football player and does plenty good in track. He likes volleyball and plays some baseball.

Willard Midby—Oly—Willard is another one of those rugged football linemen and also enjoys track.

Ed Haldey—Oly—Ed plays softball, baseball, tennis and used to be good in track but Ed claims he's getting along now in years so don't look for any broken records!

We have two girls representing the Senior class in sports, at least that's all we've seen perform around here, and we hope we haven't missed anyone. Joyce Kincaid, an all-around athlete. She plays in most any kind of a game and does all right. By the way Joyce is an A. D. P. The other girl is Marie Brunner, an L.S.P. and plays mostly softball.

Aches And Pains

By HILDA KOLLIN

Not all the aches and pains within the hospital walls are suffered by those that lie all day in bed. Oh, no! Ask any nurse. Pains with their work, aches in their feet and now and then, a pain in the neck!

Nursing education is a strenuous affair. For instance, freshmen carry a slightly heavier than college load in theory, besides an average of four hours a day of hospital practice. The pain in the neck is when she cannot find enough hours in the day for all those nice things she used to do last year.

The supervisors have their share of aches and pains, too. To see that every doctor has adequate assistance; to see that every patient has his needs and most of his wants satisfied; and to see that every student is kept out of mischief—it's a day's work, and sometimes it is a headache.

So do the instructors have their troubles,—especially if they are taking advantage of their opportunities and going to college as well. But I will not go into them. I imagine they are common to teachers anywhere.

Nursing is not the glamorous occupation often pictured, but it has its compensations. We feel well repaid for our pains when we see someone's loved one brought back from the valley of the shadow through our ministration. We thank God for an opportunity to get near to the heart of humanity, in this, our calling and profession. We love it in spite of the aches and pains.

Helen Yeend saw fit to major in English, which we believe lent prestige to our class. We are still pondering, however, over the literary value of compositions such as the following:

"I am in love. I am in love with Tommy. We are building a house for Tommy and me. I am an English major, but that doesn't mean that English is my major."

Our Fighters

By BOB TOLBERT

One might say "Who?" when referring to our "Service Men". "Who" means the twenty-one young men who left the halls of N.N.C. and joined the ranks of those fighting for the cause of liberty. Those fellows might be with us today but for the maelstrom that took so many yet spared some who served from this class. Our strength would be greater by twenty-one had they not been called. But the call was one of necessity, and so today we pay tribute to these men. May God will it so, that they may fill their places again at N.N.C.

Candidates For Phi Delta Lambda Are Announced

Candidates for membership in the Phi Delta Lambda Honor Society were announced by Miss Eleanor Ernest Monday, May 13, as being Misses Wanda Davis, Dorothy and Ruth Long, Leona Aggola, and Mr. Elvin Ernest.

Approval of their membership still has to be voted upon by the faculty, but it is anticipated that all will be accepted.

"People Of Note"

By ARDITH GROVER

Liberty Ernest, who is graduating with a Bachelor of Music degree in piano, has made an important contribution to musical activities on the campus during her two years here. Entering N. N. C. in her junior year, she immediately assumed the duties of an assistant instructor in piano. Her senior piano recital, presented during first semester of the current school year, was one of the outstanding musical events to take place on the campus.

Ardith Grover, who will receive a Bachelor of Music degree in theory, with a minor in piano, came here from Boise four years ago. Her interest in music has prompted her to take an active part in a variety of campus activities, including a cappella choir, orchestra, philharmonic choral society, of which she has served as president, and a girl's trio. She has been an assistant instructor of piano in the music department this semester. Her other activities include member of student council for two years, vice-president and treasurer of the ADP society, sophomore class secretary, and a member of Who's Who Among Students In American Colleges and Universities.

Governor Williams Is Speaker At Annual Junior-Senior Banquet

With the challenging theme of "New Horizons" the junior class of N.N.C. entertained the graduating seniors and faculty at the annual Junior-Senior Banquet, Tuesday, May 30, in the Silver Ballroom of the Owyhee Hotel, Boise.

Governor Arnold Williams, guest speaker of the evening, depicted the new horizons of today's youth as a series of conquests which must be made if we are to succeed in life. Among the conquests which must be made are those of ignorance, injustice, disease, and self. "He who can conquer himself is master of all things," declared Governor Williams.

Toastsmaster for the occasion was Mr. Elwood Smith, Student body president for next year.

Faculty, Students Hold Picnic At Ten-Mile Creek Camp

The students and faculty of N. N. C. sojourned to Ten-Mile Creek Forest Camp, Tuesday, May 7, to observe the annual all-school picnic day.

Transportation was afforded by buses, trucks, private cars, and one motorcycle.

Planning committee for the fair was Mr. Rex Stanton with help from the student body and the Council.

In charge of refreshments and three solid meals was Mrs. Tait and her kitchen crew.

A short devotional period at 5:00 o'clock p. m. wound up the day and return to Nampa was made via Arrow-Rock Dam.

This was the first "out of town" picnic since the start of the war.

withstood a four-year crop of coeds, and still does his writing alone.

Verona Taves is not without literary genius, but there again we have a problem: who is to judge the merit of literature that reads: Week of May 1-7; Table one: Nesta Beck, Ed Haldy, Marie Bruner, Howard Thompson, Ardith Grover, Mary Popejoy. Table two: Ruth Long, Dorothy Long . . .

We can't help but think we'll be missed on the campus, when it comes time to compose election eulogies or jingles for jamborees, or flowery excuses for cutting class. Our literary brains have been fertile, all right, but the crops we produced always seem to be the aller-gly producing type.

CAPTAIN! MY CAPTAIN!

O Captain! my Captain! our fearful trip is done,
The ship has weather'd every rack, the prize we sought is won,
The port is near, the bells I hear, the people all exulting,
While follow my eyes the steady keel, the vessel grim and daring;

But O heart! heart! heart!

O the bleeding drops of red,
Where on the deck my Captain lies,
Fallen cold and dead.

O Captain! my Captain! rise up and hear the bells;
Rise up—for you the flag is flung—for you the bugle trills,
For you bouquets and ribbon'd wreaths—for you the shores a-crowding,
For you they call, the swaying mass, their eager faces turning;

Here Captain! dear father!

This arm beneath your head!
It is some dream that on the deck,

You've fallen cold and dead.

My Captain does not answer, his lips are pale and still,
My father does not feel my arm, he has no pulse nor will,
The ship is anchor'd safe and sound, its voyage closed and done;

From fearful trip the victor ship comes in with object won;

Exult O shores, and ring O bells!

But I with mournful tread,
Walk the deck; my captain lies,
Fallen cold and dead.

COUNCIL CURRENTS

By VERONA TAVES

With "picnic day" a thing of the past the student council finds themselves without too much to do. I'm sure I express the feeling of all the Student Council members in saying, "The picnic was well worth our while," and we only hope that it may always be one of N.C.C.'s traditions.

Another tradition of the A.S.B. Council has been to entertain the members elected for the following year. In trying to show a little of our appreciation for the splendid jobs our Oasis and Crusader editors have done—they were included in the dinner party which was given May 13, in the Dewey Palace Hotel.

Our Student-Get-Student campaign, under the able leadership of our new A.S.B. president, Woody Smith, is to be launched soon and promises to be one of the best and most successful in the history of our college. We are looking forward to a larger student body than ever before and we know that N.C.C. will go forward.

As the senior class representative to the Student council, I wish to say it's been wonderful to work with such a cooperative group of students as we have had on the council this year, and we wish next years council the best of wishes for 1946-47.

Sneak Day

... 5 a. m. To the senior this was the much awaited sneak day, however, the calendar said May 9. A few brave souls, with that half-asleep, half-awake expression were gathered in front of the gym. Naturally, most of the seniors did not have "mind over Mattress" (quote from Rev. Riley) and consequently, Cecil Dobbs, our genial truck-driver, didn't hit out for Smith's Ferry until almost 6 a. m. As usual, Friesen's feet occupied quite a large space so the others were rather crowded. But it was alright, we gave them a rousing 15-in-one on the trip home.

After breakfast, everyone felt much better, and then the fun started. Eloise Shute tried to learn how to play volleyball, I heard, and Les Simmons and Harold Thompson had a private coke-drinking contest. (By the way, we cooled the pop in snow.) It's a secret which one won, so I won't disclose the terrible figures. Ambie Russell and Joye Frisk "retired" to the truck for their mid-morning snooze, and Doris Manley and Prof. Ray really drew applause when they walked the fence over the creek. Maybe Lucy Sturtevant will explain about two interesting veterans who were not in our group, but they had a cute car!

Well, if you've never heard about the N.N.A. Seniors, surely you did Thursday at 9:30 p. m. as the old truck rolled into Nampa again. If you didn't, it was our first failure of the day. We tried to make everyone in Nampa hear "N.N.A. Seniors Rah-Rah-Rah!" without a microphone.

P. S. Sponsors Cherrington, Ray Tillotson, and Laughlin didn't seem fresh as the morning dew, when we got back, so they couldn't laugh at our wrinkled clothes and rain-beatraggled hair.

Your Principal Speaks

The past year has been one of progress in the Academy. The faculty feels that many steps have been taken in the direction of a more efficient school. This does not mean that we have no more problems to solve but that we are better preparing ourselves to meet the problems as they are presented to us.

The new student body organization which was adopted during this year has great possibilities in the development of our students. It will take some time to get it working smoothly but the students are taking an interest in it and working out the plan. The work of the Semper Fidelis Club has been a great help to many of the students. It was organized for the purpose of developing the students in Christian service. The National Honor Society will no doubt aid in promoting high scholastic efforts.

We are looking ahead to a more prosperous period of service next year.

With a foundation laid for the work in the organizations of this year we should be better fitted to serve the students. Our aim is to build an Academy for students from which they will be justly proud to say they have graduated.

—D. G. Laughlin.
