'HERE WE GOAGAIN'

"Some things have changed but much remains the same," characterizes the NNC campus as classes get underway for the 1984-85 school year.

The college has added a new van, refurbished dormitories, air-conditioning in the student store, and a new professor in computer science. On the other hand some things are gone or remain the same. NNC business manager Galen Olsen has left NNC and Hal Weber is filling in there.

The phones are also gone from the rooms and have been replaced by a complicated plan for individual students to obtain phones. Sophomore class president Pete Rowe, vice president Kurt Proctor, and Publications Board member Karen Krauss are also gone. The sophomore class will have elections to replace those who did not return. And of course--the newest thing on campus is the FRESHMAN CLASS.

Most students remember what the freshman year was like. Everything new with all kinds of new things to do. For many, the special regulations that are a part of NNC take some adjustment. Freshmen must become accustomed to the new rule prohibiting all shorts in SAGA and the old prohibition on all kinds of dancing, except aerobics.

In student government all the new ASNNC officers have been installed. ASNNC is facing some decisions regarding control of campus publications and making the publications more efficient. Other issues facing student government will be decided in Senate, Publications Board meetings, and other student committees. Both new and returning students should be aware of the ASNNC bulletin board in the Student Center, where all information is posted.

For the new year, classes begin on Wednesday, Sept. 19. Freshmen will notice the new increased work load and higher expectations of college professors. Returning students will know what to expect-that is nothing new.

Above all, 1984-85 is a new academic year. The course of this year is unknown, but regardless, it is an opportunity for new beginnings, new chances to change, and new avenues for selfimprovement.

PERSPECTIVE 100-

Editorials

by President Wetmore

Welcome to an active school year. The campus has been a quiet place without you.

Again this year there will be people in your life who will make lasting impressions both positively and negatively. There will be new experiences of personal growth and maturation which can only come from the kind of mix that a school such as Northwest Nazarene College provides. Beneath and above it all is the gracious privilege that is ours to be together in a community of Christian academics.

With it comes some inevitable change. Or is it change? Perhaps it is emerging instead of changing. This is an age-old question. Do we change or do we emerge?

Webster's new Collegiate Dictionary defines emerge as "to rise from or as from an enveloping fluid." That definition doesn't work too well for us. It also defines emerge as "to come out into view." That one applies to us. The third part of the definition is, "to issue from an obscure or inferior condition into well being." That one somewhat applies.

Let me submit that as we enter into this new school year we can expect to emerge at least as much as we can expect to change. There is a real person inside of each of us which is crying to become. God wants and wills that to happen. He will provide the light and the experience if we will but respond.

To emerge is to bring with us that which is of real value as we enter into our next set of experiences. A Christian is especially equipped to emerge since God the Holy Spirit enables us to retain that which is of value and to discard that which is passing. NNC is, or can be if we choose, a Christian community uniquely prepared to help you to emerge.

Welcome to an active year at Northwest Nazarene College. Accept the challenge to emerge this year and to let yourself respond in a healthy manner to the Godgiven input which will come to your life.

BLEDSOE EXTENDS WELCOME

It is great to see us-the Associated Students of NNC (that's you and me)-back on campus! Things just weren't the same without you-it was so quiet.

But now, as campus shifts into a new gear, there are a few items I would like to bring to your attention. Before school even started, an important event took place at the 1984-85 ASNNC Student Leaders Conterence. During this time, we came together to set goals and objectives for the following year. Outreach of the campus to the community and involvement of the community with the campus was one. This fits so well with our theme, "Servants in the making... Philippians 2:5-8 (NIV). For as Jesus reached out to others around Him, so can we, as a student body--in one united effort--reach out to the community. Many avenues for this were discussed.

Another goal we will strive for, and closely linked on these lines, is an effective communication with the student leaders and to the student body. We also expanded this to the community level. Improvements in the publications were stressed, as we have rich opportunities to reach out through this media.

These goals sound nice--but only in a united effort by us, ASNNC, can they be successfully achieved. Now we extend these goals, linked by our theme, to you.

Yes, the campus has shifted b. sk into high gear and so have your ASNNC officers. We invite you to join us in setting this new and exciting direction for our college community.

Todd Bledsoe, ASNNC President

Upcoming Election

In the next few weeks, there are several important happenings on the NNC campus. We all need to be aware of these so that we can all receive the full benefits due us as students and as members of ASNNC.

The Sophomore Class is in need of several new officers. This is due to several officers deciding not to return to NNC. The offices open are the President, Vice President, and one of the Publications Board seats. Sign-ups for these positions will go up Monday, September 17th. Sign-ups will come down Friday, September 21st. The election of these officers will be on Friday, September 28th.

Freshman Class officer elections are coming up in the next several weeks. Sign-ups for all Freshman Class offices will go up Friday, September 21st. Sign-ups will come down on September 28th. The Monday and Tuesday following the close of sign-ups will be class meetings for the Freshmen so that all the candidates can give speeches before the class. The election will take place the following Friday, October 5th.

All sign-ups and information about offices and the election process will be on my window upstairs in the Student Center. If you have any questions about the election process that the information sheets cannot answer, then come by my office when I'm in there, or stop me on the sidewalk or in SAGA.

Student Government is an excellent way for you to be involved in campus affairs and to express your opinions to the rest of the students, the faculty, and the administration.

Hate or Holiness?

Scoping Report

Usually, columns are written at this time of year describing the traumatic experiences of freshmen. There is another untold story here. The story of upperclass males as they view the clueless, young ladies of Morrison and Culver Halls.

In order to understand this upperclass tradition, one must know the terminology. Those who participate call it "scoping-out"--otherwise they determine each girl's potential by her apparent merits. One can identify this activity by noticing that most NNC men sit facing the doorway in SAGA. This is the most efficient way to eat and also keep track of everyone's comings and goings.

Beyond the phenomenon of "scoping-out", there is an aching question. What causes upperclass gentlemen to ignore the girls of their class and observe so intensely the new, younger women? The answer lies within the basic nature of man. Man has always sought the challenge of the unknown. Or is it that he seeks the advantage of obscurity with the young ladies. Could it be that because these ladies do not know these men that the men think they have a better chance to start a relationship with them? Very possibly so.

Well freshmen ladies, beware. Somewhere out there, some upperclassMAN has scoped you out. So hey (in the words o the late sergeant), let's b careful out there. Does hate have a place in the Church or among Christians? It seems that the Church or Christians spend a lot of time hating different groups.

'Christians' have talked of their contempt for homosexuals, communists, Blacks, Hispanics, Indochinese, Jews, and yes, even Democrats! Christians followers of Christ, seem to forget that His message was apolitical, asexual, and extended to all humanity.

This is not to imply that Christians must accept immorality or other things that violate their standards, however, they are commanded to love with Christ's love. Christ loved the adulteress and we should do no less. God is neither Republican, Democrat, or Libertarian, He has no citizenship in any nation, and no group has a monopoly on His grace or compassion.

Editorials

What impact do these words have on NNC? The only impact will be in the minds of students who reject the grouping of humanity. As a college where learning and growth occur, the scope of one's compassion should also grow. If NNC is suppose to effect our lives beyond academics, then it should at least expand our acceptance of our fellow man Christ loved, and if we claim Him as Lord, we can only do the same.

During the course of the summer, the Business Manager in conjunction with other school officials, decided to make a revision in the dorm telephone policy. The new policy regards personal phone service as the responsibility of the student rather than a service provided by the college.

If a student desires to have phone service in his dorm room, he must provide for that service. The required fees are either $35 or $41 for installation, depending on rotary or touch-tone, and fees for local calls. Local service can either be subscribed to on a flat monthly rate of $11.50 or a metered rate which will be determined by the amount of use. The student is also required to provide his/her own telephone. These expenses may be shared between roomates, if they choose, and all long-distance can be made by dialing direct.

Some services, however, will be available. Remaining in each dorm's lobby will be the desk phone for either oncampus or local calls, free of charge. Plans have also been made to install pay phones in each dorm's lobby which can be used for local calls or longdistance calls with a calling card.

The rationale behind this plan is basically economic. NNC officials claim that the cost for them to provide the phone service would triple. So, instead of raising the cost of the room, the service was made optional. In this way, a student could go with a bare bones budget if that was more suited to his or her needs.

The Crusader, in an attempt to gather data on this issue, asks for your response. Please complete the attached survey and place it in the campus mail as soon as possible. The results will be compiled by the Crusader staff and an investigative report will follow in our next issue.

NEW R.D.'s

Among the new faces to be found on campus are those of NNC's new Resident Directors.

In charge of Sutherland Hall will be Bill Hofer and his wife Bonnie. Hofer attended NNC last year and returns now as a sophomore under a pre-seminary major. Hofer's long term goal is to serve as a senior pastor, but for this year, he hopes to develop and deepen his relationship with the students. Before coming to Nampa, Hofer lived in Spokane, Washington, where he graduated from high school in 1974 and worked after that time.

Pete Young, a very familiar face on campus, will be the R.D. of Mangum Hall. After graduating from high school in Jerome, Idaho five years ago, Pete made the trek to NNC. Many of us remember Pete for his faithful service in SAGA and in the Fireside Inn. Last year, Pete graduated with a degree in elementary education. When asked for his goal for the year, Pete just asked for a successful one.

The newest face in this position is Sharon Richardson, R.D. of Culver Hall. When Sharon was 18, she moved from Elkhart, Indiana, to Boise. Sharon has more recently attended Boise State University and will continue here at NNC with her social work major. Looking to the future, Sharon wants to use her degree to own and operate a recreation campground for underprivileged children. This year, she desires to grow with the girls Culver "into in the knowledge that ministry is a by-product, a natural fruit, of abiding in Christ."

The staff of the Crusader wishes to welcome these people to their new positions and also hopes for them much success.

Lloyd Thorpe, a retired naval officer, will be replacing Fred Dautermann as professor of computer sciences in the Division of Sciences beginning this academic year.

News

Thorpe will be assuming duties at NNC after twenty years service in the United States Navy. Prior to his naval career, Thorpe received a Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Utah. Thorpe went on to the Naval Post-Graduate School and in 1976 earned his Master of Science degree in computer science. Thorpe retired from the Navy in 1984 in order to assume his duties at NNC.

Thorpe was born in Spokane, Washington but grew up in Billings, Montana. Throughout his life he has had exposure to the Nazarene Church and attended NNC in the early-1960's. He is now married, and he and his wife Linda have three children;

THORPE FILLS COMPUTER VACANCY Lloyd Thorpe, a retired Cindy, 15; Lee, 13; and Tim, 9. and studying intensely in or > Thorpe said he was excited about his work here at NNC but also recognized that a move is not an easy experience. "We had lived in Manassas, Virginia, and worked in Washington D.C. for the past eight years. Washington is the hub of activity, you might say--the 'brain of the nation'. I worked in the defense apparatus of the nation and I will miss some of the city's life. I will miss friends and I will miss things that have grown familiar to me. There is always risk in going to the unknown and a risk in learunknown and a risk in leaving. However, God has called me here and I anticipate the coming year," Thorpe surmised.

Thorpe realizes that his Master's degree is about a generation(8 years) behind the current computer technology but he is reading and studying intensely in order to become current. He says that while he will be teaching, he will also be learning and so this will make him more sensitive to his students efforts. Thorpe hopes to teach both computer science and Christian lifestyle. He believes that both of these aspects of learning are important.

Thorpe also maintains some more long range goals regarding NNC's computer program. Thorpe explains,"I hope to develop at NNC a viable computer science program. The program should become and incentive for students to attend NNC. Creating that kind of program is what I hope to accomplish."

Thorpe's office is in the Science building, Rm 117. He is available for students to discuss NNC's computer program and to familiarize himself with the NNC community.

THEME UNVEILED

"Christians Developing in Academic Community" is the theme of Northwest Nazarene College for 1984-85 as unveiled by NNC president A. Gordon Wetmore at the Sept. 7-9, faculty retreat.

The retreat was to help inspire and prepare the faculty for the 1984-85 school year. Wetmore believes that 'NNC is the story of Christians developing in various stages of academic life and in their preparation for an involvement in the realities of life'.

The retreat dealt with double responsibilities of professors to promote, model, and demonstrate the truth of the Gospel but also to urge the students to fulfill their academic potential. NNC is a unique environment in the respect of promoting both spiritual growth and academic excellence.

The faculty retreat also was used to impress upon the professors the importance and reality of individual relationships with God. Wetmore explained it this way, "As followers of Christ we are all on individual journeys. The goal we know. It is the prize of the high calling of God in Jesus Christ. The route is as individual as we are and is known only to our Sovereign God."

The Crusader commends and endorses this year's theme as a giant step of progress for NNC. President Wetmore summed up the current year's direction with, "The theme is, 'Christians Developing in Academic Community.' The living out of that theme will be part of our exciting and fulfilling task for this academic year."

WETMORE GOES TO HARVARD

"It sounds somewhat revolutionary but I wanted to know what was the state-ofthe art- in educational management. I wanted to learn how it is done at Yale, at Michigan State, at North Florida University, and all across the nation," explained NNC president Gordon Wetmore. Wetmore attended the Institute for Educational Management at Harvard Graduate School of Education, July 8 through August4.

er ze nThe Institute for Educational Management (IEM) is a rigorous four week program with three major objectives. IEM strives to improve and expand the individual skills in education management of those who are leaders in higher education. The Institute also aids colleges and universities in preparing their executives for rapidly changing responsibilities of the future. Finally, IEM is geared to help individuals expand their perspectives regarding the objectives of higher education.

"IEM was more like a mini-MBA program than anything else. It was an institute to learning. For me, it opened doors to learning and exposed some fresh tools," elaborated Wetmore.

"The schedule was three or four class sessions a day on that week's topic, investigation of case studies, and simulation-role playing. It was a busy schedule but the training in management on a national level and the interaction with the other participants made the institute a valuable tool." Wetmore went on to say that the institute will play a major role in preparing him to do his job at NNC but that no immediate changes would occur at NNC as a result of his study at Harvard.

Wetmore found that being able to form friendships with other college executives was a valuable experience. He said that the Institute was made vital by learning from small and large schools that spanned the nation. Wetmore went on to say that although his interaction with the other college leaders was good, he did notice the contrast of their secular outlook. Wetmore explained, "The Christian academic encounter raises some questions. How does the Christian relate to academics that reflect certain humanist aspects? How do we reconcile the demands of the Gospel and the demands of academic excellence? This dilemma did not originate with IEM but seemed to be pointed out to me personally."

Wetmore believes that the Institute gave him some valuable tools and has assisted in his training for the job of NNC president. However, Wetmore maintains that his experience this summer is part of a larger experience. "We are on a journey. I am learning and growing just as the students and faculty are," explained Wetmore.

Wetmore, with greater confidence, looks forward to the '84-'85 school year and plans to continue learning with the entire NNC community.

FERRARO POSES FUTURE CHALLENGES

At a political rally held in Eugene, Oregon, Democratic Vice-Presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro made her plea for the Democratic ticket. It was readily apparent of the candidates two main pleas.

Ferraro hit hard on all conceivable economic issues. Calling the Reagan government "one by the rich, and for the rich." Ferraro promised housing and student loans, and government support for elementary and secondary schools. On the issue of taxes, the candidate proposed we enact a system by which all participants share the burden in a more equitable manner. The . proposed method was to close some existing loopholes in the tax law and placing a larger portion of the burden on the shoulders of corporations.

Economically, it was Ferraro's belief that the United States already possesses all the basic elements for a thriving economy. She feels it is necessary to get people back to work in order for us as a nation to utilize our inherent talents.

The candidate's alternate theme was cooperation between officials and the people. According to Ferraro, the best public official is one who will roll up his or her sleeves, tell the truth, and "work by your side." Much emphasis was placed on the ideas of "leveling with the people" so they know what is truly happening and working together to strengthen both our economy and our country.

Ferraro's message was one of urgency. "We must seize the future." Now is the time, according to Ferraro, to take action against all the terrible things in our country and society, alongside of Walter Mondale and Geraldine Ferraro.

The National Research Council announces the 1985 Postdoctoral, Resident, and Cooperative Research Associateship Programs for research institutions, whose laboratories are located throughout the United States. The programs provide Ph.D. scientists and engineers, of unusual promise and ability, opportunities to perform research on problems largely of their own choosing, yet compatible with the research interests of the supporting laboratory. Initiated in 1954, the Associateship Programs have contributed to the career development of over 4,000 scientists, ranging from recent Ph.D. recipients to distinguished senior scientists.

Approximately 250 new full-time associateships will be awarded on a competitive basis in 1985 for research in chemistry engineering, and mathematics, and in the earth, environmental, physical, space, and life sciences. Most of the programs are open to both U.S. and non-U.S. nationals, and to both recent Ph.D. degree holders and senior investigators.

Awards are made for one or two years; senior applicants who have held the doctorate at least five years may request shorter tenures. Stipends for the 1985 program year will begin at $25,000 a year for recent Ph.D. recipients and individually determined for senior associates. A stipend supplement up to $5,000 may be available to regular (not senior) awardees holding recognized doctoral degrees in those disciplines wherein the number of degrees conferred by U.S. graduate schools is significantly below the current demand. In the 1984 program year these areas have been engineering, computer science, spacerelated biomedical science.

NAMPA CONCERT SERIES PRESENTS

Marvin Blickenstaff will perform at NNC, Sept., 27.

The Nampa Concert Series will present the first concert of the 1984-85 season on Sept. 27, at 8 pm at the NNC Science Lecture Hall. Marvin Blickenstaff will be the featured pianist.

A native of Nampa, Idaho, Marvin Blickenstaff is currently a Professor of Music at Goshen College where he teaches piano and lectures on piano pedagogy and piano literature. Prior to his Goshen appointment, he was Chairman of Piano Instruction at the University of North Carolina (Chapel Hill), where he served on the faculty for nine years.

Blickenstaff is known throughout the country as a recitalist and lecturer. His Town Hall debut in 1969 was highly praised by New York critics. His lecturing includes national and state conventions of the Music Teachers Association, and over 250 workshops. A 36book series for beginning piano students, was coauthored by Blickenstaff, Louise Bianchi, and Lynn Freeman-Olson.

A graduate with both performing and academic honors from the Oberlin Conservatory of Music and Indiana University, Blickenstaff studied in Germany as a Dankstipendum recipient. His teachers have included Fern Nolte Davidson, Emil Danenberg, Bela Nagy, Vitya Vronsky, and Menahem Pressler.

VOLLEYBALL

Coach Mona Lewis is optomistic and excited about this years volleyball team. Although there are only four returners(Connie Collinge, Taffy Wilson, Lisa Keesler, and Carol Pratt), CoachLewis feels that the team is strong. This year the team is taller, giving strength to the defense, but Coach Lewis also believes she has a strong offense. NNC has a history of strong and tenacious competition. Sadly, because of a new school policy girls will have to between either choose playing on the volleyball team or the basketball team, but not both. This policy was started last year because of conflicts between volleyball games and basketball practice. This hurts both the volleyball team and the basketball team by denying them some outstanding athletes who are proficient in both sports, but must choose only one to play.

This will be a growing year for the team due to the large percentage of underclassmen. Coach Lewis has faith in the team. She says that they may be young, but they are good. Competition wise, the year will be tough. "Many schools good volleyball have programs," said Coach Lewis. Both Southern Oregon and Western Oregon are predicted to be tough, but then NNC is tough also. I expect this to be an exciting year for both the team and those who will watch them.

The soccer feam is now back from its trip to the Azores. Success was the word for it because success is what it was. When I talked toCoach Art Horwood at the end of last year about the trip, he told me three main goals he wanted to accomplish. The first was to be missionaries in a new field, for the soccer team would be representatives of the Church of the Nazarene on the newly declared Azores mission field. The second goal was to play soccer, after all we are talking about a soccer team here, but Coach Horwood hoped that the players would learn new styles and improve their game as they played the local Azorean teams. The last goal Coach Horwood gave me was a hope that by being in an unknown situation and playing what they do best; soccer, the team would become closer knit and play as a well-oiled machine, as well as boost their morale.

The Azores trip was not something we will see for quite a long time. For this was a unique opportunity for both the soccer team and the Church of the Nazarene. Our soccer team, in conjunction with the veteran missionary Dr. Earl Mosteller, would be introducing the natives of the Azore Islands to the Nazarene Church and planting the seed for future growth. Charles Gates, the coordinator for the Division of Ministries said the soccer team would be "instrumental in helping to attract favorable attention to the pioneer efforts of the Mostellers." Mr. Gates also went on to say he was grateful to the "valuable contribution" the soccer team made in helping plant the Church of the Nazarene in that area of the world.

Well, as I said before, the trip was a success. Dr. Mosteller said that "everything was accomplished." This story cannot go into detail about the success of the soccer team and its accompanying vocal group from NNC. Coach Horwood said that the soccer team was instrumental in using a "low key approach" to contact the local people and introduce them to the Church of the Nazarene.

Horwood was very optomistic before he left last year, but I think the results were even better than he had hoped for. He said he was very proud of the team, especially how they behaved in uncomfortable and frustrating situations. He said that the team pulled together and not only learned more about soccer, but more about themselves as well. I guess you could say the trip was a growing experience both for the individuals and the team as a whole. Coach Horwood was most proud of the way the team maintained a good and Christian attitude even during the toughest situations. The team finished 2-2-1(two wins, two losses, and one tie), but we must remember just who they were playing. Soccer is played by everyone in the Azores from the time they are able to kick the ball until they can't. The Azorean teams NNC played against may not have been professeionals, but they were good--real good. Coach Horwood is proud of the team, and we should all be proud of them as well.

INTRAMURALS

Let's talk fun. Let's talk sports. Let's talk games. Let's talk competition. Let's talk about intramural sports.

The whole idea behind these crazy co-ed collegiate competitions is participation. By participation I mean that intramural sports are for you no matter who you are. If you consider yourself a jock we have sports ranging from football to softball and everything in between. It you get your daily exercise by jogging to class because you wanted those extra five minutes of sleep, the walkrace is right up your alley. If you are a pool shark, you will be right at home during the pool tournament. If you are into relaxed but just as intense competition, you can take part in the Rook tournament. These are but a few of the many ways that you can participate in intramural sports and activities.

Important information and dates will be posted on the bulletin board just outside the golden gates of our little piece of heaven-SAGA. Football will be the first intramural sport to kick off the year, but keep your eyes and ears open for news of the other activities that will soon appear.

Remember, intramural sports are for you and you are for intramural sports.

LEISURE

Hey sports fans, do you realize the sports that this wonderful campus has to offer? I'm talking about basketball, volleyball, soccer, baseball, football, softball, tennis, badminton, racquetball, swimming, diving, running, jogging, resting, pool, ping-pong, video games, eating, sun bathing (one of my favorites), book watching (very similar to reading except that you never open the book), and the all time favorite; intercollegiate class sleeping (quite a few All-Americans here on campus).

SPORTS

Not only are all these wonderful sports available, but so is a whole range of equipmemt (free for use) and facilities. The place to go is called the "cage". No, that is not one of the dungeon wings in Chapman Hall, it is a place filled with all kinds of sports equipment just for your use. The cage is located on the bottom floor of the Montgomery Fieldhouse. This wonderful land of sports opportunity is there for you. Any NNC student can check out this wonderful equipment just by asking. That's right, by asking, no fee. So enjoy.
