

"Because sometimes life is strange..."

The Inquisitor

Wednesday, April 4, 2001

Volume 5, Issue 1 US $ 10.26

Shocking CIA spawned weather!

Government uses Russian technology to create violence

Ultimate Frisbee to become official sport

NNU named as top party school

LOCAL COLLEGE students reveal their wild side! These shocking undercover pictures seem to explain the school's new status as a top party college.

Janet Reno has the inside scoop on all the hot gossip at NNU.

Hot pants have gone too far!

Boise woman is found wedged into leather pants

Cheese bent on world domination

Studies find love potion in Marriot Cookies

By St. Paul

Rumors have been spread around the NNU campus for decades about the number of marriages each year. It is also widely noticed that the only food that is always edible at Marriott Sodexo are the cookies. Could there be a connection between this food and the skyrocketing number of marriages?

There is and it is a subject that Marriott employees refuse to answer to. When asked what the food they serve is and what is contained they are invariably reluctant to answer. This is because they are hiding a secret.

Within the cookies a substance has been found that can be linked with the desire to be married. Love Potion Number Nine has been found in Marriott Sodexo Cookies.

This Potion has been studied at length and has been found to have aphrodisiac properties on young adult males. The potion awakens the realization in these young men that beautiful young women surround them constantly. And, thus, the desire to date and eventually marry these young women is aroused as well.

This being a Christian school, though, the most interesting affects are more easily seen. Young men with religious inclinations are the most susceptible to these aphrodisiac qualities. It also awakens extra qualities in them that make them a lot more choosy about the young women they socialize with. These qualities make the young men look for young women that can more easily enhance their abilities to become ministers. These would be qualities such as the ability to play the piano and the calling to teach young children.

It is a well-known fact, however, that a majority of the freshman females do not regularly get asked out on dates. Why is this if the males of this school are being filled with aphrodisiacs?

Well the potion is not digestible and cannot be eradicated from the body, but it does take a large quantity of the potion to take affect on the young mans mind. That is why young men in the higher classifications are more likely to ask a young woman out for the evening.

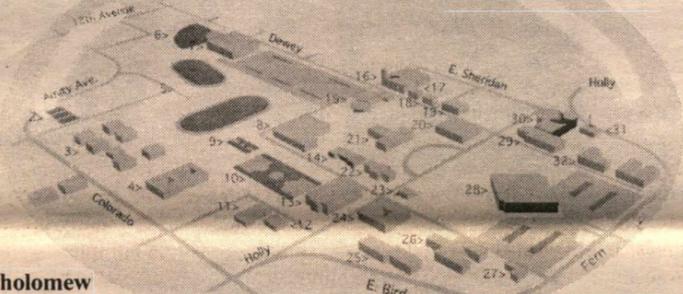

It has been discovered through careful and secret research that a certain number of cookies is required in order to put the right amount of the Love Potion in a young man's system. This number is somewhere between 500 and 1000 depending on the size of the young man.

It is important for the young women in the NNU community to leave these young men to there own consumption rate for the cookies. If the young men realize that a young woman is forcing cookies on them they will realize how desperate she is. So be patient ladies, and gentlemen, eat up (for the sake of all of the lonely ladies out there).

BIO DOME SAVES STUDENT'S LIVES

By St. Bartholomew

Many people could say that they have heard of the concept of a biological dome or CO2 dome that is designed to keep an ecosystem in a pure state or protect urban areas from toxic levels of carbon dioxide.

Scientists have taken great strides in creating a similar dome designed to protect the campus of NNU from the highly toxic fumes that spring forth from the sugar beet and meat processing factories. "I've spent most of my childhood wondering if this kind of thing would ever work," says

Over the past few decades, due to increased technology and the adverse effects of supply and demand the fumes have grown more potent. Scientists have predicted that if this continues at the rate it is going students are in extreme danger of asphyxiation.

For the past decade the world's top brains have been constructing this amazing piece of science. This dome is composed of fiberglass particles that have been fused with silicone oil and boric acid to create the most effective defense against Nampa air.

The combination of the silicone oil and boric acid gives the dome a buoyant texture. This texture causes the fumes to literally bounce off of it and fly at an extraordinary velocity through our Earth's atmosphere to be trapped in space.

The team of scientists constructing the dome is taking every precaution one could imagine in order to guarantee the safety of Northwest Nazarene University's students and the efficiency of the dome itself. Students are advised not to leave their dorm rooms except to attend classes, meals and in the case of extreme emergencies.

Resident Directors as wells as Resident Assistants and Peer Counselors are in a very intense training program as we speak in order to lead the residents to safety in the event of over toxification. Students who have had the advantage of building up immunities to such toxins are also required to be involved in such training programs.

Those who are not immune or who have not had proper training are advised not to intercede in emergency situations. Such involvement could worsen the condition of the victim and/or cause major problems in the attempted rescue.

Although the dome is on its way to completion it will still take years for implementation of the project. It is very important that students pay attention to the warnings given by authorities and practice routine precautions in order to promote the safety of all members of the NNU community.

Scientists are positive that the dome should reach completion no later than August 2001. However, there is still a mountain of paperwork to be done, which may cause the dome to not be put in place until the following year. However, Northwest Nazarene University is to be reassured that the danger of dying students is still in the distance.

The project team informs us that the deadly effects of the toxins quite possibly will not show up for at least another three years. This being the case, it is important to keep a clear head and not panic. All necessary precautions have been taken to insure the safety of the community.

It is important that everyone work together to create as much of a fume free environment as possible until the completion of the Nampa-dome project. Wal-Mart has a large stock of various air freshening supplies, which must be added to survival kits at once.

With precautionary measures in place let us look ahead to the future. We can rejoice at what is in store for our community and delight in knowing that our air will be rid of the toxins that have plagued us for so long.

Computer sabotage sources revealed

articphoto.co.uk

Alaska ponders outside world.

By St. Thomas A' Kempis

The issue needs to be addressed that the computers on campus do not always enhance the student life. In one instance, witnesses testify to seeing a computer wait until their term paper has been completed only to have the spell check button work as a self-destruct button. Other stories include being hypnotized into a submissive state by wave patterns flowing on the screen and being led to stealing toilet seats and shower curtains. On another note, there have been countless lengthy e-mails that have been sent into cyber-nothing-similar to the "Nothing" from The Neverending Story.

What is the cause behind this unpredictable behavior and unexplainable events? "It's as simple as this," comments Technology Director, Ted Wheeler, "two years ago I was walking from the Administration Building, having just gotten a talk from Hagood about regulating access to Southern Baptist websites, and there they were. Boxes and boxes were stacked out in back of Wiley. There was no note, no return address, just dozens of those machines you use every day."

Allegedly, the gifts were delivered by an outside source. Close inspection reveals no special hardware aside from the normal components of a desktop system. Yet, strangely, there have been low-wave signal omissions detected coming from every lab computer on campus. Local specialist, Mike Ronpi, sees the problem as an outside force controlling-or at least manipulating-our systems.

The typical rural Idahoans believe this force to be an alien mothership or some form of organized rebellion of their yard dogs, but the more educated guesses of scholars and government officials lead to the possibility of Alaskan infiltration in order to gain knowledge of how the outside world is developing. The computers must then be a generous donation from a party particularly interested in the advancement of the Last Frontier.

Governor Dirk Kempthorne spoke in a press conference last week regarding the matter. "The problem here is not that Northwest Nazarene University is having trouble running its computers, but the fact that Alaska is finally coming around to the information age. Complications here could extend further than previously imagined. The immediate concern would be that the new run for electronics in Seward's Ice Box will only worsen the difficulties our nation is having currently with power shortages."

This hypothesis accounts for the disappearing of emails, due to the overwhelming curiosity of the Alaskan government and the incapability of NNU media staff to solve small glitches within our network-obviously resulting from amateur hackers rummaging through the system.

A relief effort is now being organized to provide libraries of information to those less fortunate around the world in order to reduce the likelihood of these events occurring. Ronpi estimates that with governmental help, software and hardware trouble may be eliminated within the month.

Can't get enough of that fresh Nampa flavor?

Ahh, yes the soothing aroma of sugar beet on the way to work or on those long roadtrips.

Stock up now for the summer so you won't miss the comforting odor of your home away from home.

Get Sugar Beet air freshener now!

Backstreet Boys move to NNU campus

By St. Mary

In a rather puzzling turn of events, the members of the popular folk band, Backstreet Boys, have applied to be students of Northwest Nazarene University. These teen idols and favorites of Christian college students worldwide will be beginning their long-awaited college careers this next fall semester.

"We've always dreamt of attending a highly accredited religious party school together, and now that we're really really rich, we can finally afford a top notch place like NNU," stated Nick, "I can't wait to move into Culver. It's the bomb!"

When asked about their plans for the future, A.J. responded, "Yeah, we all knew that we couldn't stay in the music industry forever, even though we're like, way good at it. I plan to major in Elementary Education, because I've always dreamed of teaching kindergarten."

Apparently, he's not the only one with kids on his mind. Kevin, the oldest of the group, plans to make a career in youth ministry. He related, "It's about time I started preparing for the future. For crimeny's sake, I'm going to be turning 30 this year. I'm surprised they haven't booted me from the group yet!"

Howie, who is also climbing the ladder at 27, is itching to dive headlong into a double major of religion and philosophy, asserting, "Dr. Lyons has always been my idol. I, like, can't wait for the chance to impress him with my liturgical prowess. I'm sure he'll have me marry his daughter, Kara, so she can be my assistant pastor."

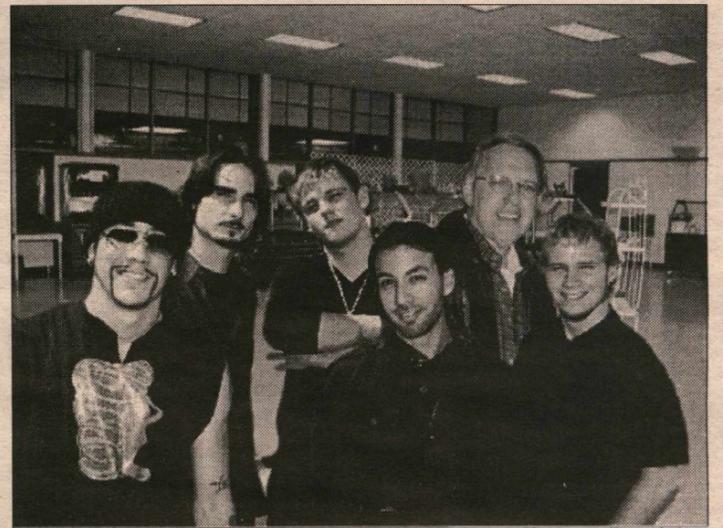

Brian is the only of the boys to be continuing on with music, as he revealed, "I've always had a passion for the opera. I've already spoken to Dr. Marlett, and she thinks that I have a promising future in the genre. I guess it runs in the family—my brother, Stan, has been doing Barbara Streisand in Reno for years."

The talent of the top-selling boy band won't be coming to a complete halt, however. They plan to lead worship in chapel often, and Ministry Coordinator, Nate Roskam has booked them for three-fourths of next year's Time Outs. Correspondingly, admission to these events will be $23 each at Select-A-Seat. The regular 32 chapel credits will still be required.

"I think that the major draw for the rest of the guys," related Kevin, "was the fact that they're all single, and everybody knows that NNU is famous for getting people hitched. Of course, I already got myself a woman, but they need some good wives with strong morals and who can play the piano."

While the addition of the Backstreet Boys to NNU's student body promises to be beneficial to most, there are some who aren't too happy about it. A new coalition of students has banded together under the leadership of Pope Ryan Danker with an agenda to keep the band out of NNU. Pope Danker told the The Inquisitor, in an exclusive interview, his objections to the boys' admission: "I mean, think about the words to their songs:

Grant Mangum/Inquisitor

PREVIEW DAYS welcomes Backstreet Boys to campus, and Dr. Hagood gives the tour personally.

'Don't care who you are, where you're from, what you did, as long as you love me.' What kind of values does that relate? It's of Lucifer if you ask me!" In response to this statement, one of the Backstreet Boys was reported as saying, "Nya nya nya nya nya."

Students suffer enough! Student Center redesigned to prevent stress burn out

By St. Augustine

It was recently announced that NNU plans to build a brand new student center. The new facility will be completed by August of 2002, if everything goes according to plan.

This new building will be much more pleasant than the old one. It will contain many of the same services that it does now such as the post office, Student Development Offices, the bookstore, Student Resource Center as well as many other new things for students to enjoy.

There will be a Starbucks located on the second floor, for those students who cannot live without their coffee. Also located on the second floor will be a student computer lab that is open 24 hours a day.

The third floor will be the home of a massage room, where students can go to relieve their stress. It will be open special hours to accommodate students during the week of finals and midterms.

Also located in this new building will be a convenience store where students can purchase all the little necessities of life without having to ever leave campus. Inside sources say that the store will even have its very own slurpie machine.

There will also be a movie theatre that will be free to all students. It will no longer cost students an excessive amount of money to catch the latest flick.

One of the greatest improvements this new building will offer students is the variety of choices on where to eat. Instead of just having one main cafeteria, this building will house many different restaurants. There will be a Pizza Hut, Taco Bell, Wendy's, McDonalds, Red Robin and even an Olive Garden.

Students are incredibly excited about this new facility. One freshman commented, "It will be so totally awesome to be able to have all these really great things right here on campus."

A building of this capacity costs a decent amount of money, but because of the hard work of clubs on campus it is possible to see this building become more than just a plan on paper. Thanks to all the clubs who worked hard so this new student center can be a reality.

Are you a senior? Are you a religion major? Are you running out of choices?

Boy do we have a deal for you! We at Beauty Bride Bargains know college is tough and you don't have time to date, go through the hassle of courting and make a meaningful relationship with the most complicated species known to men. Plus dating can get expensive! For eight simple payments of $39.99 you can receive a cooking, sweeping, dusting beauty queen fresh out of Sweden. We at Beauty Bride Bargains only pick the best. Order now and receive a marriage certificate and wedding rings for free! Act now, don't delay!

New material used in construction of dorms

By St. Francis of Assisi

Most NNU students have heard the rumor that Morrison Hall is eventually going to be torn down and a new dorm will be built in its place. The workers in the Student Development offices would like students to know that this has been confirmed and approved. Next November, construction will begin on the newest dorm at NNU, so it should be ready by the fall semester of the following year. "The growing population of this institution requires more dormitories on campus for the coming years," explained Karen Pearson. "We are planning at least three more within the next ten years."

Students as well as staff at NNU are excited about this new dorm. Our school's president, Dr. Richard Hagood, donated the money for the building costs. "I'm excited about the future 'Hagood Hall' at NNU. The new material that will build the dorm is brand new-NNU will be the first to use this material. It is sure to be a revolution in the construction field," claimed Hagood.

Indeed, this new dorm will change the possibilities for constructing buildings. Hagood Hall is to be built entirely out of pizza boxes; both used and new. As Hagood told the press, "The students order and eat enough pizza from various places in town. It is a logical solution and should cut down the cost of the actual building of the dorm. Students will be expected to donate their pizza boxes to the school for this dorm. Personally, I see it as a way to grow as a community. The students will feel as though they all helped to build this dorm."

The overall student response to this announcement was very positive. "I like the idea that we're trying something new. I'm just sorry that I probably won't get the opportunity to live in it, though. Let me just say, the first day I'm back on campus for my senior year, I'm heading over to check it out," said Sophomore Kenny Meier.

There were a few students who did not approve. "Personally, I think it might be a little disgusting. I mean, pizza leaves a lot of grease and a distinct odor. I hope that this dorm will be a guys dorm, because it will start off with the bad smell the guy dorms eventually get," said Junior Naomi Falby.

Whether Nampa is ready or not for such a change, the plans are in place and construction will begin very soon. Each student should show their support for such a risky venture and do what they can to help!

This will not be a problem, however, because each of the boxes will be preserved with an equally economically efficient material. The adhesive material that is used to glue the sturdy cardboard also acts as an active ingredient to soak up the odor from the used boxes.

Professional contractors are certain that this plan is the height of technology. "It is even earthquake safe given the structure's malibility," adds John Deer, the project's foreman.

Commys riot at NNU's Career Fair, may effect future enrollment

By Mother Theresa

Thursday, March 29, NNU got a startling jolt. The career fair rolled into town, bringing with it businesses and employees in search of that one college student that is perfect for their company. The NNU gym was filled to the brim with tables, tag board, bright colors and not to mention the many professionals ready to grab the first student who looked interested.

The companies varied from McDonalds Manager Graduate Schools to Clown Agencies. Everyone wanted a taste of what NNU had to offer. However, no one was quite prepared for what truly happened at the career fair.

Off to the back of the gym was a simple news channel booth. Many students walked past it and did not even give it a second look. Many of the students were off to the popular tables such as The Button Factory or Bathroom Cleaners Job Agency. No one can testify as to who was the first student to check out the booth. All that can be confirmed is that someone approached the booth and caused the Communist Party riots, which lead to the biggest out break of recruiters the NNU career fair had ever seen. Many speculate that a student walked up the news channel booth and asked what they had to offer. After that, facts became very fuzzy.

It is said that the Communist ripped down the signs promoting the news channel and quickly started to grab students as they walked by. The Communist then started threatening the faculty accusing them of making machines out of the valuable citizens that make up the working class, and telling the students of all the glories of what the Communist Party had to offer. One eyewitness said, "The Commies jumped up on their booth and started yelling out things like... 'Castro will never die! Long live Fidel Castro! Join the only true working government!' It was so weird!"

Students then retaliated in what seemed to be a fearful outburst, trying to push the Communists out of the school's gym. But the students were unsuccessful. Finally, the NNU security team came to the rescue.

After a long dispute, the Communists promised to behave themselves and calmed down. Because of NNU's none judgmental belief, the Communists were allowed to remain and promote their beliefs. However, strict rules were set and security stayed close to make sure that the Communists did not get out of hand. "Strangely enough, I've been dreaming in red since the event," says security officer, Dan Wilcott.

The career fair went on and was very successful; however, the Communist Party's Booth was the most visited booth at the fair. And rumors are circling that many students have decided to leave Nampa and move to Cuba.

A FLAG of Stalin hung high in the Montgomery Field House Wednesday afternoon as the chief sign of communist unity.

Quaker style is back

By St. Mark

In an effort to lower individual living costs for students NNU Administration is considering enacting a school wide dress code.

The idea is that this will limit the prices of the clothes that students are buying, and the plan is to limit the number of brand names students are allowed to select from when choosing new clothes. Specifically American Eagle and Abercrombie and Fitch clothing are being considered, but it is possible that more than that will eventually be eliminated.

"We just want students to be able to pay more attention to studies and less on clothing and money," assures one of the committee members. Another adds, "It also makes it difficult for some students to concentrate on school work when they are having to deal with a lack of selection in the appropriate sizes at such stores."

Students as well are in favor of the change to a new school dress code. "I think it would be a wonderful lesson in humility in dress. The fact that we can't wear all of those expensive clothes will remind us that there are people that can't afford the clothes we wear."

Just wearing a few less brand names would not altogether eliminate the problem. There are serious considerations that if a dress code is implemented that it should be as strict as the plan may ever need to be.

abercrombie.com
ABERCROMBIE IS one of the name brands being considered blacklisted.

Do not worry this would not leave students without a choice in clothing though. If the new dress code is implemented as it is planned the school dress code will begin to sell the material needed for students to make the clothes that the code requires.

What would this new code be? All students will be required to wear plain colored linen clothing in specific patterns. Males would be required to wear linen pants or shorts, and plain linen shirts. Females would be allowed to choose from linen pants, skirts or shorts, and plain linen shirts.

If students color coordinate the fabrics they buy this will also limit the amount of money spent on laundering clothing, due to the ability to always do a full load of laundry, and not a half full load of a color worn less than others.

A variety of colors would be available and the number of articles of clothing will never be limited. Students have so many other things to worry about it may be a blessing to not need to worry about clothing.

Abused squirrel takes revenge

By St. Theresa

Recently, the female students at NNU have been in danger. A giant squirrel has been attacking and terrorizing the females on campus in order to take his revenge. It is rumored that the event that prompted these attacks is also the event that drove the squirrel over the edge.

Last fall, while collecting food for the winter, this squirrel was verbally attacked by one of the female students. She was crossing between the Riley Library and Ford Hall when she saw him and attacked him.

As a larger than normal squirrel he drew her attention, and then, with witnesses present, she proceeded to tell the squirrel that he was fat. This experience must have damaged the Squirrel, who already suffered self-esteem problems being overweight, and he was driven past the bounds of rationality.

The squirrel's anger became obvious as the attacks began. One freshman girl was attacked as she left the Student Center after lunch one Saturday. As she exited the building, the giant squirrel was waiting for her. "I was so afraid! I thought he was going to kill me!" Squirrels, being a naturally timid creatures, run in the presence of unusually loud or high-pitched sounds. Luckily for this girl nature overrode the anger in the squirrel and he ran when she screamed.

This semester the attacks have progressed from frightening encounters to theft. One day earlier this semester the squirrel broke into Morrison Hall and stole clothing from one of the residents there. "It was both frightening and hilarious at the same time," admits one witness, "There he was running across the courtyard with a bra firmly clamped between his teeth."

Grant Mangum/Inquisitor

SQUIRREL CAUGHT red clawed, with abusor in hand.

In this time of extreme danger, all of the females on campus must be made aware. Do not walk through campus alone. Do not leave your intimates or other personal items in places where they may be taken. Do not leave the doors to your vehicles or rooms unlocked. From this point on, you should be careful for your own safety and the affect that your words can have on the people and animals around you.

No names were used in this article to ensure the safety of all of the witnesses and victims.

Ultimate Frisbee announced as official new college sport

By Lizzy Frizzy

Due to the popularity of Ultimate Frisbee on college campuses around the nation, the NCAA and NAIA have made the decision to include Ultimate Frisbee as an intercollegiate sport. The NCAA has received overwhelming support around from many different colleges and universities for their recent decision.

It is expected that the immediate formation of this sport will generate millions of dollars in television and radio contracts. Inside sources report that NNU might even be the backdrop for an upcoming commercial.

The NCAA and NAIA have also decided to make ultimate frisbee the first coed sport in college sports history. Scholarships will be available for all of the prospective players. The NCAA hopes to eventually persuade Vince McMahon to provide the funding for a professional ultimate frisbee league.

The NCAA hopes ultimate frisbee will surpass the popularity of football and basketball. Negotiations are underway with the Rose Bowl and the Orange Bowl to host playoffs at the end of the season.

NNU's team has been practicing hard for many weeks in hopes of becoming an official member of the league. Freshman Juanita Friso

afda.com
COLLEGE STUDENTS practice frisbee with hopes of being new college champions.

commented, "It's such a great sport for people to get involved in and have a great time while being competitive."

The date of the first competition has not been announced yet, but The Inquisitor will keep you informed.

Dove becomes NNU mascot

By Monica Peace

NNU athletics is going to undergo a few changes in the next year. It has been determined by the Athletic Department that the Crusader mascot is too intimidating. The school administration wants to convey the caring and friendliness that is NNU. People picture the slaughter of thousands of people by Christian Crusaders and are literally scared to play NNU athletic teams. In staying with NNU's Christian tradition, it has been determined that NNU's new mascot will be a dove. All athletic events will begin with the releasing of seven doves. It is hoped that NNU opponents will no longer fear death at the hands of NNU athletic teams.

The other major change for NNU athletics affects the indoor sports. The university can no longer afford the upkeep of Montgomery Fieldhouse so all indoor teams will be forced to play in the great outdoors. The basketball teams and dovesaflight.com

NNU ANNOUNCES the dove to be the new mascot. The Crusader will no longer be making an appearance at athletic events.

the volleyball team will now play their games at Kurt Finkbeiner Memorial Recreation Center. The school anticipates a great savings in this move and does not anticipate reduced attendance.

Yankees deal with defections

members.tripod.com
CLEMENS THROWS last pitch for Yankees.

By Distrout in NYC

The baseball world is in shock today. In a startling development, five players from the New York Yankees have decided to quit the team. Derek Jeter, Bernie Williams, Tino Martinez, Roger Clemens and Mike Mussina all personally contacted George Steinbrenner and told Steinbrenner to stick his money in a quote "very inappropriate place."

Roger Clemens cited personal reasons, "I just can't stand working for that egomaniac anymore". Derek Jeter said he could no longer handle the pressure of winning, "I just want to go to a team where we don't win the title every year. I hope to play for the Devil Rays." Growing tired of the weight of his championship rings, Jeter said "I plan to give a couple of rings to Arod. He'll never win a title in Texas and I feel bad about that." The other three players were not available for comment.

Steinbrenner and manager Joe Torre are devastated. "I can't believe they quit on me. Now everyone will see I'm no better than local tee-ball coach. However, Steinbrenner is confident of another world series ring. "I have more money than most countries and I will buy an entire team if necessary."

NBA POWER RANKINGS

- Chicago Bulls- Legacy means this team great no matter the record
- Vancouver Grizzlies- Any team that contemplates moving to New Orleans must be good
- Golden State Warriors- Rookie of the Year poses bright future for Warriors
- Washington Wizards- Jordans presence poses concerns for deep concerns for opponets
- Atlanta Hawks- Getting rid of overgrown Mutumbo good. Getting rid of Isiah bad.
- New Jersey Nets- Team should be renamed the New Jersey Crutches
- Cleveland Cavaliers- Will always have memories of great start to season
- Detroit Pistons- Grant Hill? Who needs him!
- Boston Celtics- Bird to come out of retirement since the Celts are doing so well
- Indian Pacers- First seed to last seed. Playoffs are playoffs

Timeout to be a blast!

Come to Timeout Wednesday night. Timeout is guaranteed to be a real blast! Yassir Arafat will be our special speaker for the evening. He promises detailed instruction on his top secret bomb making techniques.

NNU MAKES TOP TEN LIST

Amy Carner/Crusader

A typical weekday afternoon in Ford Hall: relaxing after a long day in classes.

You know you have been partying too much when...

- It looks like you have two of the same roommate.
- You start confusing your fake phone number from real one.
- You think it could snow in April...oops...it happens in Nampa.
- The squirrels around campus appear to be speaking to you.
- Climbing up to the top of the bunk bed becomes a safety hazard.
- You start forming an intimate relationship with the toilet.
- You think that Dazed and Confused, Dude Where's My Car and Road Trip deserve an Academy Award for their portrayal of American values.
- You think it is a good idea to go introduce yourself to the gang across the street.
- You have a list of alibis by the phone for when Mommy calls.

And you thought Freshman 15 was the worst of your problems...

Don't be a fatty!

Control yourself!

Fetuses are fattening!

Abstinence

the only way to keep that girlish figure

Sponsored by The National Association for Straying Nazarenes (NASN).

You know NNU has problems when...

- Students only want to study the passage of Jesus's first miracle: where he made wine from water.
- Nampa starts getting a reputation for something other than sugar beets.
- The Religion majors have a Christmas party with a Toga theme.
- Nursery service is needed during chapel time.
- Drug tests are required for Intramural Football.
- You start seeing more parole officers on campus than career counselors.
- More options for housing are needed: single mother housing, single father housing.
- Parking between the lines became impossible (you thought that people just didn't know how to park).
- NNU starts to put NNU logos on the beer caps with straws.
- NNU is considered by MTV for next years Spring Break location.

Student Government needs your help:

Be sure to sign the petition outside the 'Dex' at lunch and dinner times for the approval of NNU's instillation of a hot tub in the gazebo and valet parking for each dorm! You with your help, we can pass these great ideas!

Top Ten Party in the United States (2001)

1. State University of
2. University of Wisco
3. Northwest Nazare
4. University of Florid
5. University of Color
6. Florida State Unive
7. Ohio University
8. University of Kansa
9. University of Verm
10. University of Den

NNU's New PDA Policies (Public Displays of Affection)

(Will be enforced proceeding: April 4, 2001)

- Any cars with steamed windows in the parking lot will receive a $25 fine.
- Any lip to lip contact will be a $25 fine.
- Any hand holding other than a hand shake is prohibited. If the handshake proceeds beyond 5.3 seconds, there will be a $25 fine administered.
- Any lap sitting is banned. There are plenty of chairs around you don't have to share.
- Any hugs must be performed in a manner similar to hugging your mother or it will be a $30 fine.
- Any inappropriate kissing or smiling will be grounds for a $50 fine. The tongue is for licking lollipops and stamps.
- On your 2 offense of playing footsies, your big toe will be cut off.
- On the third offense your entire foot will be cut off to prevent you from sinning.
- Cuddling is for teddy bears not respectable college students.
- A $25 fine for any of those who breach the 10 inch personal space rule.
- Any excessive amount of googly eyes at each other will result in your eyes being gouged out in accordance with the scriptures.

Party People on the Rise NNU Survey shows:

- 95% of students dress non-conservative
- 98% of students have lied to their moms
- 82% of students groove on the dancefloor
- 92% of students make excuses about homework
- 81% of students sleep in chapel
- 99% of students kill bugs
- 90% of students sneak into the 'Dex'
- 98% of students speed
- 96% of students haven't washed their hands after going to the bathroom

ST FOR PARTY SCHOOLS

Bump & Grind
Dance Lessons

If you want to get down like Snoot Doggie Bow Wow, boogie like N'Sink, or shake it like the Back-alley Boys, then come and let Dr. Dance show you how it's done.

Nazarene Approved Program

Call for an appointment:
Dr. Fonspod 8888

Lindsay Glaze gets her groove thing on in her favorite Hip-hop Nazarene Dance Club. The number of NNU students who go to dance clubs has tripled since last month.

Party Schools in the United States (2001)

- University of New York
- University of Wisconsin
- East Nazarene University
- University of Florida
- University of Colorado
- State University
- University
- University of Kansas
- University of Vermont
- University of Denver

STOP Fighting the Party Disease STOP

NNU makes plans to prevent party-fever next year...

- Supervised visits in place of open house
- Undercover investigations of the ingredients in the Brick House drinks
- Chapel buddies will be implemented. You must sit next to the person and make sure they go to chapel.
- Metal detectors at the Brandt Center.
- Communion outlawed in all Nampa Community
- Any and all water bottles that aren't transparent will be confiscated
- Intro to College will be replaced with a class on The Evils of Alcohol.
- Standard skirt lengths will be reinforced.
- 1st time drinking offence: note home
- 2nd time: parent conference
- Timeout will start being used in reference to the punishment rather than the gathering.
- Any use of the word "bud" should be in reference to a flower, and "buzz" in reference to bee noises.
- The campus adopts the theme song, "I don't want your sex for now" by DC Talk.
- Security dogs sniff care packages in the mailroom.

Chiro, the crack sniffing security dog goes to work

PARTY(Verb):
Whatever mommy wouldn't approve of or anything you don't want Daddy to know.

Slumbering before sobering: Tolerance levels still low in Freshman year.

Graffiti Cleaning Party

If you want to help clean the graffiti off of the Brandt Center your help would be much appreciated. Scrubbing material will be provided.

provided. 2000 Call 9110

Cheese takes over the world

ilovecheese.com

By Chukkie Cheez

NEW YORK CITY – The crisis that developed after the Cheese Producing/Exporting Countries (CPEC) announced their intention to limit production of its product has continued to have drastic effects on the United States economy. CPEC has been the main producer of gourmet cheeses, including Swiss, Gouda, Limburger and Mozzarella, for more than a century. This most recent production cut is just one in a string of decreases dating back to the Cheese Crisis of the 70's.

Mark Fromage, a top Wall Street analyst, noted that this production limitation has raised the price of most cheeses from the last industry average of $2.71 to $2.83 per brick.

"This 12-cent price increase, while meaning a $35 billion a year increase in sales for the cheese industry, also means a huge negative affect on many other industries," Fromage stated.

The Pizza Hut Corporation has been forced to close down over one hundred restaurants in the US alone. Amanda Kissenug, spokeswoman for Pizza Hut, blamed CPEC for the mass closures.

"We can no longer afford to produce the Cheese Lovers pizza. We have also been forced to cut back on the cheese we put on other pizzas," explained Kissenug. "This means decreased sales for Pizza Hut and, needless to say, we are not pleased with the choices of CPEC."

Other restaurants have also been forced to shut down hundreds of chain stores, including McDonald's, Subway and Burger King. In one extreme case, the lives of the citizens in Green Bow, Minnesota, were thrown into uproar when all the restaurants in town closed their doors within three days of one another. National unemployment rates have skyrocketed as restaurants release hundreds of employees. Many spouses have been forced to quit their jobs in order to cook dinner.

The Wine Tasters Guild has had to cut down largely on its wine tasting parties, as the cheese used to cleanse the pallet is largely unavailable because of production cuts. This also affects the wine industry which is estimating its losses at 2 million bottles a year.

As people in the US line up at check-stands to get as much cheese as possible before the prices go up even more, the effect on the world economy and political structure has been far more devastating.

Famine has broken out in many third-world countries. The French have become even ruder, as they can no longer afford to have cheese with their wine. Russia has had to quell several uprisings in Siberia and Irkutsk as the result of limiting cheese rations in those areas. China is attempting to invade Taiwan, although this crisis may be unrelated to cheese production.

Many Government officials are alarmed by the negative effect that this crisis is having. White House officials say that President Bush is seriously considering withdrawing from CPEC. However, Cheese Lobbyists from Wisconsin are putting considerable pressure on him and he is expected to rescind on the idea. The Cheese Lobby contributed $3 billion to the Bush Presidential Campaign. Many Democrats are calling for an investigation into the possibility that these contributions were connected to sudden decreased production of cheese, as well as President Bush's change in his stance on cheese in general.

Meanwhile, scientists have been working tirelessly to come up with alternatives to cheese in order to feed the world.

The Kraft Corporation has come forward with several new products that could replace cheese, but these replacements have not yet been refined to the point where they are cheaper to produce. Many people are attempting to replace cheese with things like cottage cheese or peanut butter, but most have found there to be something lacking in the taste and color.

CPEC's apparent disregard for the chaos it is causing, even in countries that are members, has outraged many people. It may only be a matter of time before there is an uprising against the tyranny of CPEC.

CIA secret weather experiments rage out of control

By Electric Youth

While many Americans simply presume that the weather is an act of nature out of their control, this assumption now appears to be quite naïve. Sources close to The Inquisitor have recently revealed that some of the deadliest, most dangerous weather patterns in the United States have in fact been set into motion by the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA).

The CIA organization have been performing weather experiments with the Microwave Cannon Weather-Improvement Device (MCWID). Completed in October of 2000, it was created as a result of information obtained from Russian scientists. Many Russian technologies were made easily obtainable at that time.

"At that time, you could get secret research that had taken the Soviets years to develop for the price of a Happy Meal at McDonald's," a CIA source revealed.

American scientists were eager to obtain this technology with the original intent of putting it to good use by ending the cycle of droughts and floods. Motives also included creating a warmer climate in the colder parts of the United States and Canada. However, as revealed by a CIA insider known as Bob for confidentiality, the MCWID soon proved to be too tough to handle and instead has caused much more harm to the United States than could have ever been imagined.

The cannon's operation is based on the simple principle that by changing the electrical charge of the particles in the ionosphere, major weather patterns are easy to change.

Bob explains this concept in greater detail by stating, "What happens in the ionosphere determines where you have rain and snow, which way the winds blow, pretty much everything that affects weather on Earth. By beaming targeted microwaves into the sky, you can reverse the charge of ions and control the weather."

So, earlier this year the CIA ob-

wiu.edu

ELECTRIC NIGHTMARE!
Powerful storms threaten to lay America to waste!

tained special permission from the White House to begin testing the new cannon and at first the results looked quite promising. One of the areas that they first targeted was the Northwest, which did experience quite a mild winter this last year. However, things became gravely dangerous when the cannon was tested in the northeast and ended up creating blizzards of devastating size. These megastorms are still reeking havoc on the East Coast and pose the threat of imminent death and enormous property loss.

The CIA is currently working on fixing the problem by using the cannon again but are not being allowed to do so by the White House. Hopefully, both the CIA and White House will get things in order with the nation's weather soon. The CIA wishes to improve conditions, wanting Americans to feel free to go outside and actually enjoy the weather instead of fearing for their very lives.

Lewinsky seeks vicious revenge

By Susie Sunshine

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Chelsea Clinton, Former President Clinton's daughter, is under round-the-clock Secret Service protection after receiving terrifying kidnap threats. The source of the threats has not yet been made public.

During a recent vacation to an Aspen, Colorado ski resort, the former first daughter was closely followed by six agents everywhere she went. As Miss Clinton is now an adult, she should not have government bodyguards, as her father is no longer president. However, the threats are serious and no one is taking any chances.

An inside source leaked reports to The Inquisitor that the threats should be taken very seriously and would only confirm that the group making the threats is closely tied to Monica Lewinsky. Ms. Lewinsky's motives behind the threats are not yet known, but she does have reason to want to retaliate against the Clintons. After her affair with the former President, her image has been greatly tarnished and her motive could be revenge.

In response to the threats, Former President Bill Clinton commented, "We are doing everything possible to keep our precious little girl safe from the demented people in the world."

Miss Clinton will try to continue to lead as normal a life as possible

starmagazine.com

CHELSEA JUST wants to be a normal college student and be left alone.

at Stanford University, in Stanford, California. Her studies in pre-medical training are going better than most people expected. She has many friends and has even had a boyfriend or two during her time at college.

White House agents will be watching Miss Clinton closely during the next few weeks. Her telephone conversations will be taped. Anyone whose name does not appear on the role sheet will not be admitted to any of her classes. No one is allowed to enter her dorm unless the proper authorities have searched them. All the necessary precautions are being made to keep her safe.

wiu.edu

SHOCKING PICTURE!
This woman's photo was taken just after she was hit by freak, CIA-caused lightning.

President Bush announces plan to resign by August

By Luna Tick

WASHINGTON, D.C.— Newly elected President George W. Bush has assumed office after the most grueling, knockdown, drag out election in living memory. Yet incredibly, he plans to quit by August, inside sources say.

White House insiders claim the aim of what they call the Bush “early exit strategy” is to use the honeymoon period every new President gets with Congress to push through his own personal political agenda. Bush then plans to leave with a good reputation before the anticipated Second Great Depression hits the nation.

“Bush’s advisors have privately told him that the economy will go into full recession mode by summer’s end, no matter what they do. It will be a time when no one but a fool would want to be President,” reveals Washington pundit Brian Niegold, citing unnamed White House sources.

“Bush is confident that within that time frame he can accomplish his major policy goals, a tax cut for all Americans and education reform, then get out of town before the roof falls in.”

President Bush is willing to gamble that he will go down in history as a solid leader, despite serving less than a year in the Oval Office and the odds are actually in his favor.

“President John F. Kennedy served only a short time in office, yet he remains one of our most beloved Presidents,” points out Niegold. “By contrast, others who started out with high approval ratings, like Jimmy Carter, only became less popular as time dragged on and they were mired in economic woes or scandals.”

When Bush leaves office, Vice President Dick Cheney will automatically become President.

Democrats who have gotten wind of the early resignation plan are furious.

“They were hoping that Bush would be stuck with a political hot potato, a sour economy, and his perceived failure would cripple the Republican party,” said Niegold. “George W. has figured out a way to outsmart them. In a way, it’s masterful.”

But Democrats insist they are not a bit impressed by the supposed brilliance of the Bush plan.

“What’s been coming out of the White House is a Republican spin on a looming political fiasco,” said a leading Democratic Party strategist, who requested anonymity.

Krtdirect

PRESIDENT BUSH delivers important announcement to the Nation. He will be stepping down from his highly sought after position in early August.

Bush expresses fierce desire to hug ‘brothers’

By Tommy Calahan

PODUNK, IN— There was nothing conventional about President Bush’s speech Tuesday, April 3, at the National Salesperson Association (NSA) convention. Bush was laid back and relaxed about answering a variety of questions about sales.

The salespeople seemed to be having a great time. Randy Howard, head of the NSA, said of the President’s speech, “I’ve seen a lot of things in my life, but that was awesome!”

The President was encouraging to those who were working full-time as salespeople, as well as attending college. Tony McGuire, working college student, felt confident after listening to Bush. “He said that a lot of people go to college for seven years, and they are not just doctors,” said McGuire, who has been attending the local community college for six years.

Some were unimpressed with the photo-op that Howard was making. Steve Bobbinhammer called Howard a “fat guy in a little coat” who was out to lie to the members of the NSA. Bobbinhammer claims Howard has called him a “no-selling waste of space” even though Bobbinhammer has been top selling man for the past three years.

Bush praised Bobbinhammer’s selling ability and claimed he could “sell ketchup popsicles to a woman in white gloves.” Bush spoke a great deal about the importance of selling, especially to the American public.

“What the American public doesn’t know is what makes them the American public,” said Bush, evoking a cheer from the crowd.

Howard called from the audience, “I’m picking up your sarcasm!” and the president laughingly replied, “Well, you should since I’m laying it on pretty thick!”

The President signed on as a member of the NSA under the name of Herbie Hancock. Howard shook the President’s hand and immediately Bush said, “Brothers don’t shake hands, brothers gotta hug!” The enthusiastic convention was met with few complaints and much applause.

HOT PANTS INVOLVED IN TRIPLE MURDER/SUICIDE

By Mack Daddy

A missing woman was found late Monday, April 2, stuffed inside a pair of leather pants. Boise-area police had been looking for the victim, Amanda Huginkis, for about three months after the 22-year-old was reported missing.

Sources close to The Inquisitor reported that when the body was found, many local officers could not bear to look at the young lady being yanked from the dried dead cow skin. When Huginkis was eventually extracted, police found a business card in the pocket of the pants. The exact inscription on the card has led to some confusion. Some have said it read: “Yeah, your mother!” while privately authorities have told The Inquisitor that it actually said, “Joey’s Rear Huggers.” This connection to the popular brand of jeans has led to scrutiny of the designer.

The main suspect in the case has been identified as cult leader Bishop “Gimpy Leg” Joey, founder of Joey’s Rear Huggers and also a well-known religious cult, The Cow Skins of the New Millennium. The actual name of Joey is unknown, but he is an investor in Verizon Wireless systems. Joey, supposedly on a mission from the “Great Creators,” or what he has described as a race of giant space frogs, has close to two followers in the cult.

Early Tuesday, Boise officers stormed the compound of The Cow Skins of the New Millennium. Team leader, Jackson Hewitt told our reporters, “It didn’t take much force. The metal on the trailer was very easy to cut through.”

As police got closer, hoping to find the leader, all they found was 67,000 pairs of leather hot pants. Neither of the cult members were found in the compound. Police conducted a full search of the Happy Hills Trailer Park, the reported headquarters of the cult, but the search turned up nothing.

Later Tuesday, another pair of leather hot pants was discovered under the nearby Ninth Street Bridge. Inside were both of the other cult members.

That evening, on a lucky break, the police received a call from the Boise Airport. The subject of that call was unknown, but within 45 minutes, the police had swarmed the airport and were in a standoff with Bishop Joey. He began hurling leather hot pants at them from afar and, after seriously wounding six officers, he finally decided to make a run for it.

The police responded by detonating a small section of the terminal with C-4 plastic explosive. After the numerous explosions subsided, Bishop Joey was found dead, in his hand was a mask and the police saw who he really was underneath it. Sources close to The Inquisitor have reported that it was legendary singer Mel Torme from the old abandoned circus.

Bridal industry walks down aisle

By Wendy Wedsprinkles

CHICAGO— In the largest commercial alliance since Sprint and Candice Berggen, the American Wedding Industry (AWI) announced its intentions to join forces with the Really Expensive China Industry (RECI). AWI, the leading American enterprise behind the gourmet coffee industry, released news of its recent marriage to RECI in a press conference Tuesday, April 3.

“We realize that marriage is a lifetime commitment and we’re here to help,” Jenni Smitherines, spokeswoman for the AWI, said at the conference. “The American Wedding Industry sees no reason why it shouldn’t be easier and more convenient for brides-to-be to select the perfect china pattern.”

A selected Really Expensive China

Industry company will be featured on both the inside front and outside back covers of all bridal magazines printed from April 2001 to April 2010. Bride’s Magazine, Bridal Guide and Martha Stewart Weddings implemented the changes earlier than most.

“We just thought it was important to prove that we were on track with the plan AWI has for us,” Todd Calmester, representative for Bride’s, stated. “I, personally, would sooner lose favor with God than I would the American Wedding Industry.”

Both Noritake and Waterford, the largest contributors to RECI’s success, were reportedly thrilled with the new development.

“It is a relief to know that we have gotten through to the masses,” Noritake CEO Marcus Lancaster III noted. “They need to realize the importance of quality, designer dinnerware.”

China companies that are not members of the RECI were reportedly offended by their exclusion from the marketing push. Many such companies, including Corning Revere, Kenmore Fine China and Bubba’s Plates ‘n’ Stuff, do not yield enough high revenue to warrant inclusion into the RECI.

CHINA INDUSTRY joins forces with Brides magazine.

Classifieds
Classifieds

NNU'S BEST GOSSIP!!!

The inside scoop on what goes on within the walls of Northwest Nazarene!

By Janet Reno:
-----
*The Inquisitor
Gossip Girl*

SWM, religion major, seeks wife with piano playing ability. All other characteristics negotiable. Please call 8132 immediately!!!

Non-dairy creamer for sale! Three cases must be sold before they thaw. Contact the Business Club for details.

It takes two baby! Divorced and widowed female seeks young college male to keep me company. Only two blocks from campus. Call 465-4634.

Free accordion lessons! To win, send self-addressed, stamped envelope and a jar of dead june bugs to Marshall Schott, Box # 2081.

Free to good home, Canadian transfer student. Needs to be let out twice a day. Great with children. Call 8171 for details.

Help me out! I need to get out of the country fast. Will pay anyone who has fast car or plane tickets. Contact Dan Wilcott immediately at 8516.

SWF, 26, third-year senior hoping to hook up with a freshman guy. I like long walks, ice fishing, and peanut butter. Call me at 8159.

Take a trip on the wild side. Male biker, 68, NNC alumnus still looking for that special gal. I'll be on campus in May, so be ready!

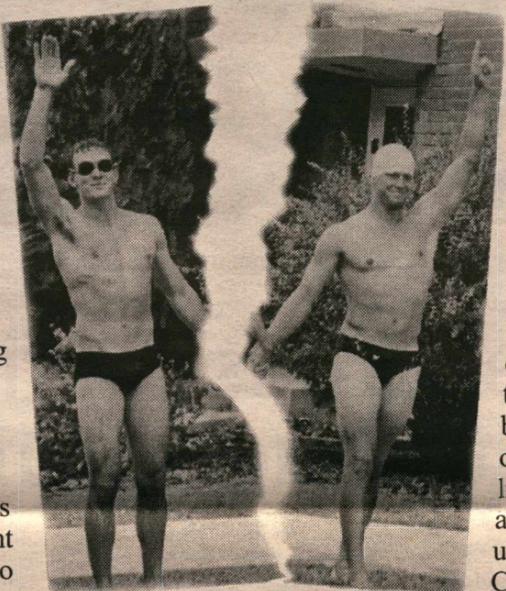

Used toilet gasket for sale. Been cleaned once or twice. $5.00 or best offer. Call Trampus at 8305.

Tap dance your way to success! Private lessons now available. Prices negotiable. Contact Jeff Glasenapp for a consultation.

We Sell Stuff Good!
Sell your old junk or yourself with Inquisitor Classified Ads. Don't call us, we'll call you.

GUNSTREAM AND MOYER FINALLY CALL IT QUITS

Long time couple Joel Gunstream and Tyler Moyer split up this past weekend after reportedly fighting over which of them had the best looking calves. The two gained a reputation early this year for winning the regional pairs synchronized swimming championships in Fruitland, ID. "I thought that, if anybody, those two would make it," related a close friend of the former duo.

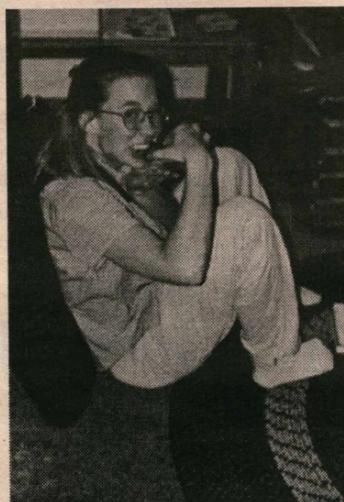

i i i
In an upsetting rejection of NNU's administrative rules, Publicity Director Sara Hughes and SGA President Amanda Marble were caught dancing in a campus building this past Monday. This blatant display of their obviously rampant rebellion has caused concern about just what goes on upstairs in the Student Center. Robert Faust, an eye witness to the two's shocking conduct, asserted "We don't pay fees to this school so that the executive council can get jiggy with it."

Word has it that Dr. Hagood didn't really know what he was getting into when he decided to switch to the semester system. Therefore, next year, NNU will go back to quarters. As an unfortunate outcome, students will lose one-third of their credits with no way to retrieve the lost credits. As a result, NNU will now be advertising itself as a six-year university.

forced to make these changes to ward off desperate senior ministerial students who have been lurking around the dormitory. "It's something I deal with at the end of every year," Hadden related. "I just wish they would give it up already."

Janelle Smith was the first of several students to report an addiction to Marriott brownies. She has since started a rehab and support group for seniors who dread graduating and giving up their beloved brownies. "I don't like walnuts, so I consider myself one of the lucky ones," Smith reported.

Nick Shoemaker tried to start a new fad last week by wearing clothespins on his pants. It didn't catch on.

The Treasure Valley Psychiatric Hospital (or the "Nampa Nut House" as students lovingly call it) made a visit to NNU to detain David Orias when he finally snapped and went on a killing spree, stomping on every ant he could find. He was charged with 1,200 counts of first degree murder but was granted a full pardon by Senator Hilary Rodham Clinton.

i i i
Kim Hadden, Resident Director of Ford Hall, will be implementing new rules including a 9:00 pm curfew and no unsupervised phone calls. She claims that she was

GRENN EXPECTING HIS FIRST!

Jason Grenn surprised most of his classmates during his recent visit from Alaska by revealing the fact that he is now in his third trimester as the first pregnant male.

Biology professors are puzzled, and some fellow students have been curious as to how this could have occurred. Friend Jeff Wilson is reported as saying, "It's not mine."

The Inquisitor Editorial Staff

Amy Oglevie
The Real Mr. Clean

Sonya Wold
Oldest Living Nun

Lisa Linard
DaVinci's Inspiration

Dusty Baker
Malaysian Prime Minister

David Kadel
Joe Pesci's Stunt Double

Lori Fenton
Saran Wrap Technician

Lynette Brown
Hopscotch Queen

Gabby Walker
World's Tallest Man

Grant Mangum
Big Foot's Baby

Haniel Massoud
Columbian Cigar Mogul

The Inquisitor cannot and will not stand for free speech of any kind. Therefore, please keep any opinions you may have to yourself. If you have any questions about the content contained in The Inquisitor, please direct them to Inquisitor staff overseas correspondents, Margaret Thatcher and the late John Candy.

Those articles located within the Opinions section of The Inquisitor have been fully endorsed by Northwest Nazarene University and the International Church of the Nazarene. If you have a problem with that, please speak to Richard Hagood and let him take care of you and all members of your immediate family. Any editorials you may wish to submit must be at least 4000 words long and approved by General Mills, Inc.

Goodman and Fields star in Spielberg's new NNU film

◀ John Goodman gets a chance to show off his basketball skills as he plays the role of Matt Warner.

Sally Fields shines once again in her portrayal of Amanda Marble. It is the role she was born to play. ▶

By Kenneth Star

There is no way that anyone could have missed the hoards of Hollywood stars and camera crews that have flooded the NNU campus over the past year. President Hagood jumped at the chance when he first found out that Director Steven Spielberg wanted to make a movie about NNU. Students were excited as many of them were allowed to be extras in the film. The main characters in the movie, however, were played by some of Hollywood's brightest stars. Frontier Theater will never seem the same in my eyes again, after attending the premiere of the hilarious comedy Ring by Spring. The film was based on various students' experiences on the campus of NNU!

The plot amazingly portrayed a realistic experience at NNU and followed the lives of four students from NNU. The story began in the fall semester of the 2000-2001 school year. Senior Matt Warner (John Goodman) and Sophomore Lori Fenton (Oprah Winfrey) had been dating since the second semester of the previous year.

Fenton's roommate, Senior Amanda Marble (Sally Fields) is convinced something needs to be changed in the relationship between Warner and Fenton. After all, they have been dating for a few months and are not even engaged yet! This seems especially strange to Marble because Warner is a senior ministerial student. She drops hints to the couple on occasion, which end up being some of the funniest scenes in the movie.

Warner and Fenton decide that Amanda needs a distraction from them, and attempt to set her up with Junior Ryan Pike (Macoulay Culkin). Pike is Fenton's cousin as well as one of Warner's best friends. Pike and Marble are complete opposites in personality, which makes the set up even tougher.

Amanda, while trying to avoid getting too close to Pike, seeks the council of Gene Schandorff (William Shatner) to find a way to get her two friends hitched. From there, the story escalates into a hilarious escapade as Marble finally rejects Pike and falls in love with freshman Brent Earwicker (Leonard Nimoy).

The situations that the characters create and get into are very humorous. I think that most people would enjoy this movie,

"Due to a strict arrangement between Paramount and Dr. Dunn, the film had to be rated G, so there's no need to worry about sex scenes or even excessive petting."

especially NNU students. They could fully appreciate how the school is portrayed and which actual people made it into the movie as cameo characters.

While Ellen Degeneres wouldn't have been my first choice to play Dr. Hagood, her performance commanded the same respect that thousands of students have been pretending to have for the president himself for years.

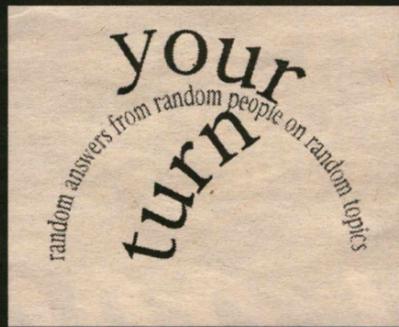

Arnold Schwarzenegger was quite believable to me as Dr. George Lyons, though his usual homework assignment of 200 pages was replaced with a strict workout. I also thought that Helen Hunt was perfect type-casting in the role of Dr. Michelle Marshman. Her lectures did in fact remind me of the history class I had with her. That part of the movie really inspired me to dig out my World Civ. textbook and refresh my memory on the use of sacraments in medieval Europe.

The students the movie chose to use as characters were probably my favorite, though. Jerry Seinfeld did a great job as Marble's best friend, Nate Roskam. His comedy routines in Time Out are sure to be some of the most memorable scenes.

There was one scene that I liked in particular. In it, Marble seeks the advice of The Crusader Staff on which dress she ought to wear to her blind date with Pike. Amy Oglevie (Rosanne Barr), Adam Watkins (Kirk Cameron), and Lynette Brown (Jessica Candy) reject Marble because she's not in the popular crowd, but she is soon befriended by Haniel "Handle Bar" Massoud (played by Billy Blanks in his first acting role). The scenes in the Crusader office were truly hysterical, as the other characters all played "psychiatrist" to Marble in her relationship problems.

This movie is definitely worth the time and money to see! I will one day want to own this movie, just to remind me of my college days at NNU. I am not sure how they were able to put together such a fabulous cast, but it worked out wonderfully!

I think this school will be able to benefit from such a promotion, and it will see an enrollment boom for the next few years due to this movie. Due to a strict arrangement between Paramount and Dr. Dunn, the film had to be rated G, so there is no need to worry about sex scenes or even excessive petting. There was no cussing and no questionable material. I would definitely give this movie a score of 15 on a scale of one to ten. This movie was acted and written very well and should be up for some Oscars when next year rolls around.

What's your favorite animal and why?

"Elephants are cool because they have those little claws that they use to dig into nuts and things. Oh wait, I mean squirrels. Yeah, squirrels are cool."

Freshman, Jim Butkus
Botany
Hong Kong

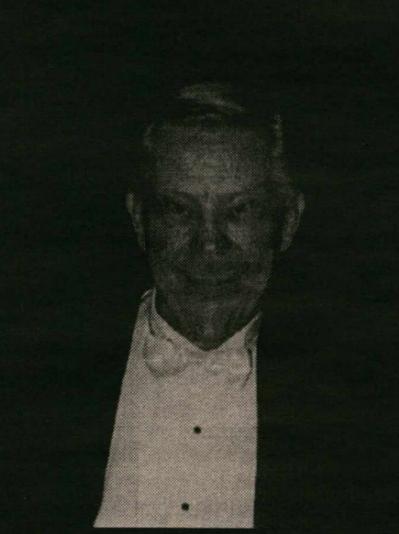

"That would have to be my pet chimp, Booper. He was the best monkey in the world until he went on a crime spree and I had to shoot him."

Sophomore, Evelyn Bennett
Carnie Technology
Washington, D.C.

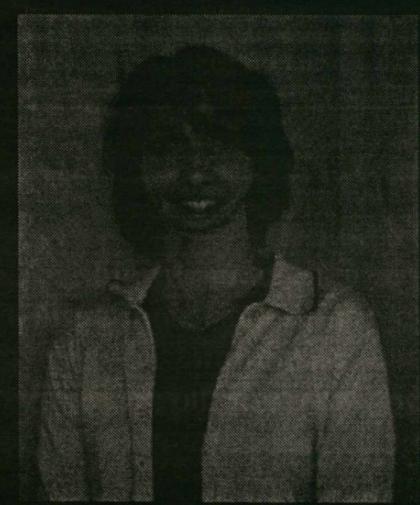

"I can tell you what I don't like! It's those teddy bears. They're everywhere! Their little eyes watching, waiting, piercing into your very soul. They freak me out, dude."

Junior, Marvin Stallcop
Flyfishing
The Former Soviet Union

"I've always been partial to ringworm. Mostly because I had a cat that had ringworm. I hated that cat."

Senior, Karen Pearson
Scientology
Honolulu, HI

THE INQUISITOR IS PROUD TO PRESENT:

Karaoke Chapel!!!

Monday, April 9, 2001

Come and sing your favorite songs in a comfortable church setting!

Gene Schandorff will be the acting DJ

The Drama and Music Departments invite you to audition for the summer musical...

*HAIR*

If you enjoy acting, singing and wearing more makeup than Michael Jackson, you're invited to audition!

(Nudity clauses will be handed out at the door)

GET FIT FAST USING THE JUNK LYING AROUND YOUR DORM ROOM!

Why pay for pricey gyms?

Secrets to a firm,
fit and muscular
body revealed in Dr.
Armstrong's new book!

Great Ideas like these...

Triceps — Get a pair of old tires and hold them at your sides. Bring them up slowly as high as your armpits as you can. Do 85 reps. If you find tires too heavy, use carborators instead.

Gluteals — Standing up, place a plastic cup between your buttocks. Clench your cheeks together to crush it flat. Then release slightly without letting the cup fall. Repeat 40 reps.

...and much more!

ONLY
$47.<sup>00</sup>

Top Ten Favorite Tabloid Headlines

10. Giant woman distressed because she can't drink tea!
9. Ancient astronauts colonized the moon 10,000 years ago!
8. Hundreds of lobster claws were sewn into surgical patients in the past year!
7. It's official! There are currently 8,400 real superheroes worldwide!
6. Four college freshmen discover the fountain of old age!
5. Man predicts his own death...and lives to tell about it!
4. Statue of the Virgin Mary weeps...again.
3. Please help me track down the aliens that took my brain!
2. When Jesus rose from the dead, did He go to Heaven...or Texas?
1. I'm having Prince William's love child, and all I got was this lousy plate!

Submitted by: The Psychology Department

This list is proudly sponsored by
YOUR MOM

FACE OF SATAN SPOTTED ON COW'S HIND END!!!

"The end is coming!" states Dr. Cowles

By Jesse Ventura

Last week, several students reported seeing this hideous sight on the campus of NNU. Allegedly, the cow wandered onto campus from a nearby ranch, although some students believe that it came straight from the Abyss.

John Galloway, scared almost to tears, reported, "That thing was so grotesque that I nearly wet myself! I hope it goes back to Hell where it belongs!"

Other students claimed seeing the same creature, but some did not see the demonic presence on its hind quarters.

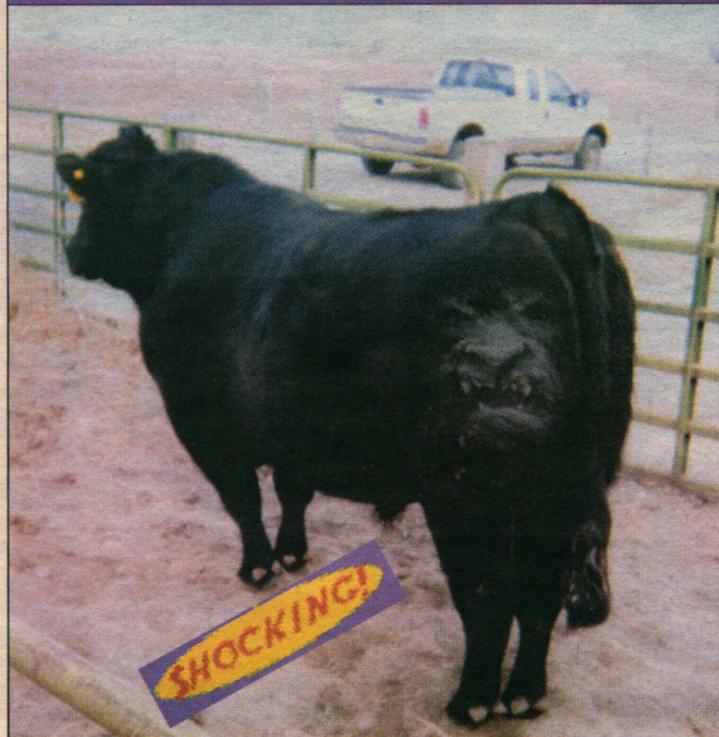

The religion and philosophy department staff were buzzing with the implications of this sinister omen.

Dr. C. S. Cowles giddily ran around his office waving his hands and shouting, "The end is coming! The end is coming!"

Professor Thompson agreed, saying, "I've always held firmly to the belief that cows are evil a priori. This is obviously a sign from beyond this world to warn us of the coming doom."

The animal was reported to have disappeared into thin air near the gazebo. The NNU administration has begun plans to purify the area with the sprinkling of holy water. Students will soon receive invitations in the mail.

Jumpin' Jivin' Undies!

Connects to your alarm. After 10
minutes of inactivity,
the underwear
administers a mild
electric shock.

-Optional remote can be purchased by roommate if so desired.

-No more being late to classes!

-Never have to deal with that nasty roommate's snore!

-Available in a variety of styles and colors for both men and women!