Campus Honor Society Organizes

Officers for 1953-54 were elected at the Nov. 20 meeting of Zeta Kappa Rho. Carlton Bryson was named president and Betty Miralles, secretary-treasurer.

Students may become members of this organization by maintaining a 3.40 average for two consecutive semesters. Listed below is a list of the present members:

Seniors—Bill Adamson, Carlton Bryson, Dick Ivester, Joe Keen, Jim Lais, T. C. Leckie, Margaret McClung, Bonnie McGraw, Betty Miralles, Rod Newman.

Sophomores—Carol Hankins, Eleanor Horne, Clifton Oleson, Joe Stockett, Morris Weigelt.

Several students gained recognition by being on the honor roll at mid-semester and the Zeta Kappa Rho encourages these students to keep up the good work.

Students at NNC should strive to do their best in all phases of life, but not neglect the academic side of life.

Lois Tracy, Floradell McKay and Betty Bradford, upper division, and Joan Embury and Lois Cramer, lower division, have been chosen by the student body to reign over the 1953 Tip-Off game between NNC and EOCE, Jan. 23.

The queen and her attendants will be escorted by Len Back, Les Martin, Gale Maxey, Rod Newman and Roger Wilcox.

Honor Guard Chosen

Serving in the honor guard will be Alvin Solts, Jim Gilson, Floyd Johnson, Bob Dennis, Mervyn Gale, Rich Powers, Harold Hughes, Jim Lais, Paul Anderson and Marvin Bloomquist.

Ill Health Forces Resignation of Former Dean of School of Music, Alline Swann

Because of failing health, Mrs. Alline Swann, former Dean of the School of Music, has been forced to resign from her many college duties.

Mrs. Swann joined the NNC faculty in 1943. In a few years she built the school of music to an all-time high with a strong faculty, a large number of majors and a fine reputation throughout the Northwest.

A brilliant musician herself, she has been a dynamic and creative administrator and has made a lasting cultural contribution to the life of the college.

Mrs. Swann has also served as director of College Church music. She hopes to reserve time for some limited piano teaching in the near future.

Miss Ivallee Bolerjack, B. F. A., M. Mus., M. Ed., has been appointed acting dean of the School of Music, and Miss Elaine Carlson, A. B., B. Mus., her assistant.

MRS. ALLINE SWANN

President Riley Attends Conference Of Northwest Secondary and Higher Schools

Dr. John E. Riley represented NNC at the annual conference of the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools which was held in Seattle Nov. 30-Dec. 2.

Seventy-five colleges and universities, several hundred high schools, and a few junior colleges are members of the association. NNC has held membership since 1930. For several years Dr. L. T. Corlett served as a member of the higher commission which is the accrediting organization of the association.

The local representative attended discussions on problems of creditation, general education, college and university administration, problems arising from military service and educational television.

While in Seattle, Dr. Riley held conference with the NYPS council of the Northwest District to plan a spring motorcade.

Sixteen Participate In Speech Finals

Finals of the annual intramural speech contest were held Dec. 14 and 15 during the chapel hour. Results were not known at press time.

In the preliminary events held last week, 16 finalists were named. These included: Shakespearean dialogue, Noreen DeJong and Joe Keen; Wayne Bauder and Joan Embury; Ardis Manley and Gordon Renschler; and Clarice Harmon and Howard Smith.

Poetry reading finalists were Clarice Harmon, Noreen DeJong, Russ Miller and Gary Finkbeiner.

In the humorous reading division, finalists were Marjorie Clay, Lydia Angier, Wendell Poole and Ardis Manley.

Finalists in the dramatic reading section were Joe Michel, Betty Brown, Gary Finkbeiner and Clarice Harmon.

Faculty Members Plan Xmas Party

At the invitation of Dr. and Mrs. John E. Riley, the faculty will hold their annual Christmas party at the new home of the president, Dec. 18.

Wives and husbands of the faculty members are also invited.

Mrs. A. A. Aller, in charge of the committee on entertainment, has appointed James Carkhuff and Miss Dorothy Long to help plan the activities which will include games, music and refreshments.

Dec. 17 Is Date For College High Joint Music-Drama Fest

"The Road to Bethlehem," a unique presentation of the Christmas story, will be presented Thursday night, Dec. 17, by the college High School.

The story centers around three girls who are stranded at a country bus stop following a Christmas eve party, according to Beth Tame, director.

The three girls are portrayed by Geni Volk, Merle Suitor and Carol Wion. Betty Brown is the narrator. The high school chorus will also be featured in the pageant.

IRC Sponsors Coronation Film

Under the auspices of the college International Relations club, the "Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II" was shown members of the student body during the Dec. 9 chapel period.

IRC members and those of the Art club held a joint meeting Dec. 7. Special speaker was Prof. Dey, a teacher of art at the College of Idaho, who recently arrived from India. His talk on Indian art and history was illustrated by lantern slides.

In addition to business meetings IRC has given one chapel program and two evening programs so far this semester. At the former, Windsor Lloyd spoke on his recent trip to Europe and the Near East. He spoke again at the evening meeting, showing colored slides. Among the pictures of special interest was one of the harbor illuminations at Constantinople, May 29, 1953, celebrating the 500th anniversary of the capture of that city by the Turks.

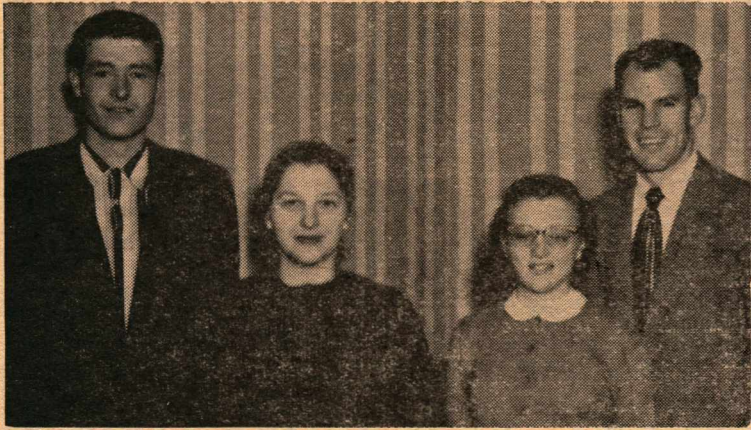

IRC is a member of the Association of International Relations clubs. This association is the national organization of the many hundreds of IRC groups in the colleges and universities of the United States and Canada.

All parents and friends of College High are invited to attend.

Handel's Messiah Is Presented in College Church By Philharmonic Choral Society

Soloists for the Messiah which was presented Dec. 13 in College Church were, left to right: Al Nettleton, tenor; Arlene Samuelson, contralto; Darlene Gentry, soprano; and James Carkhuff, bass. Dallas Quick directed the chorus.

George Frederick Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah," an annual feature of the Christmas season at Northwest Nazarene College, was presented by members of the Philharmonic Choral Society in College Church of the Nazarene, December 13.

The 8:15 presentation was given under the joint sponsorship of the college, the Nampa Ministerial Association and the community.

Dallas Quick, well-known public high school choral director and graduate of NNC, directed the 150-voice, robed choir and 25-piece orchestra composed of students, faculty members and townspeople.

Featured soloists included Darlene Gentry of Camas, Wash., soprano; Arlene Samuelson, Nampa, contralto; Al Nettleton, Boise, tenor and James Carkhuff, Nampa, bass.

Miss Ivalee Bolerjack, pianist, and Miss Elaine Carlson, organist, were accompanists.

Prof. Wilbur Harris, college band director, organized the orchestra and copied orchestra scores.

Geris Says...

Another new improvement is soon to be completed on our campus. This is none other than the installation of new bleachers in the gym.

We are through with slivers, numerous kicks in the back, torn clothes and having to watch a game in a cramped position.

Half of the bleachers have already been disposed of—the remaining half will be removed shortly. The new ones should be erected within the next two weeks.

Culture is not only helpful but imperative in our college life. To aid students in etiquette, English style meals are being served in the dining hall.

Every Friday evening has been designated as "dress up" time. At this time the dining hall too is dressed up with white table cloths, candlelight and dinner music.

This style of meals will prove beneficial to preachers, preacher's wives and business men as well as to those who enter all professions.

Views From the Pen of A Critic On The Recent LSP-Oly and ADP-SLA Plays

There are few arts closer to people than the drama. The love of play acting seems to be a part of our basic human nature. It is an effective way of telling a story or expressing an idea which has both beauty and heroism.

I am not an apt critic, having had little experience analyzing drama as it is produced, but having viewed many plays at NNC, maybe I can add some comment of interest.

Choosing the right kind of a play is very important, not only for the moral interpretation but for the mood of the script and its conveyance to the audience. I was pleased with the high caliber of both plays.

"Magnificent Obsession"

The background music between acts of the "Magnificent Obsession" was exceptionally good. The programs, although not outstanding for their attractiveness, were easy to read and contained the information which we needed. I was impressed with the pleasing living room. The arrangement was good, though my attention was drawn to the picture of the doctor as being obviously a fake.

Joan Embury, as the doctor's wife, did a fine job of mixing poise and youthfulness in portraying a young woman married to a man much older than herself. There were times I felt I was straining to catch her lines and because of it, missed part of the detail. Also, action was somewhat stilted in the drowning scene.

Dr. Hudson's voice and actions fit his character but I felt he wasn't made up to look as old as he should.

The part of Bobby Merrick (Wayne Bauder) was played well, especially his acting from the wheel chair. However, there were places where his lines lacked sincerity of feeling.

As far as completely putting herself in character, I felt that Ardis Manley did an excellent job. Her weakest acting was in the scenes where she was referring to action going on off stage.

Pat Habermehl acted her part as a flippant young daughter with zest. I thought she did very well in the change of attitude through the last half of the play. I also felt that her quick changing moods could have been more realistic had they been accompanied with a change in tone quality, bodily posture and tempo.

Monty Brent and Dr. Malcolm Pyle were cast well in their supporting parts. The Dawsons, the colored characters and Mrs. Wickes all did well.

My main criticism of the play in general was that the audience was not made to feel the mood of the scenes—particularly when the bandages were being removed.

"The Enemy"

I found it most helpful to have the type of personality listed with each member on the programs in "The Enemy."

I might say that the first act dragged. The first and last acts are the most important of the play. Each character needed more expression, particularly August Behrend. He gave the impression of a poker face, but needed to act much older.

The atmosphere was particularly good. One was made to feel the manner of living, culture of the period, the fashions of the day and the characteristics of the place. The staging was unique. I liked the dining room scenes—somewhat different from the usual.

Carol Russell was exceptional—so well suited to her part of Pauli. She made you feel she was actually living in character.

Jan, the servant, was spectacular with his dramatization of scenes from the battlefield. Betty Brown was well suited to her part of Mizzi and I enjoyed Kurt, her young son.

Carl (Ed Arnold) did well in the second act but was somewhat weak in the first. He was good, however, in his portrayal as a delicate poetic type.

Baruska (Florence Cook) added a touch of humor which was well received. The faking dinner scene might have been improved. It was too obvious that nothing was eaten.

Russell Miller seemed very much at ease in his interpretation of Prof. Arndt. Howard Smith and Lloyd Bellamy were good as supporting actors.

All in all, both casts did very well and I enjoyed the performances.

119 13TH. AVE. SO.

from the... LIBRARIAN'S DESK

To Christians everywhere the angelic glory of that Holy Night of long ago fills the air once again this Christmas—filling the heart with new hope and the mind with peace—for on this day was born in the city of David, a Savior, Christ the Lord.

The library has taken on a festive air with displays of suggestions for Christmas reading. The Christmas season is a time when all should read the Scriptures about the birth of our Lord. No event in history has been the inspiration for literature as has the glorious event which we celebrate at Christmas.

We should read again the classic Christmas stories, plays, poems and essays, and devotional books. Among the best known are Dicken's "Christmas Carol," the Birds' "Christmas Carol," "The Gift of the Magi," "The Littlest Angel," "The First Christmas Tree," "How Christmas Came to Simpson's Bar," "Old Christmas," and "The Other Wise Man."

Christmas Poems

Poems about Christmas are so numerous that a list is not practical. If you need a poem, ask the librarian for "Granger's Index to Poetry." There are Christmas Carols available in "Oxford Book of Carols," and others; Christmas records may be checked out for class sessions, or club parties.

Christmas pictures adorn most of the December magazines, and copies of "Ideals" have an abundance of material in pictures, poems, and stories. December story magazines have many good stories and poems.

Devotional Books

In addition to the Bible stories of Christmas, there are many devotional books that are inspiring and rewarding. Biographies and autobiographies are an inspiration to all at this season. A few of these are listed here: "Apples of Gold," "Valuable Bank Notes," "Pitchers of Cream," "Honey from Many Hives," and "Helps to Better Living." Among the many biographies we list are: "Spirit-Filled," "Roy T. Williams," "Servant of God," "Here I Stand," "Sunshine and Smiles," "John W. Goodwin," "A Man Called Peter," and "Down Melody Lane."

Religious fiction may be a help to better living. We mention a few: "The Hem of His Garment," "The Happy reading, and a Merry Christmas from the library staff. In the words of Tiny Tim, "God bless you everyone."

DEAR Phil . . .

A glance at the calendar portrays the feeling that only a short time remains in this interval of spanning days stretching from one joyous holiday season to another, IN SHORT, Christmas is near!

I desire to present to my best girl a small token of my esteem, a remembrance of my gratitude, a symbol of my love, a souvenir of our association, IN SHORT, a Christmas present.

However, I am in the throes of an acute situation resulting entirely from an extreme case of intense financial embarrassment — IN SHORT, I'm broke! How can I ever come to a full realization of a satisfactory fulfillment of the desire which is now uppermost on my scale of intellectual problems? IN SHORT, how can I give my girl a Christmas present?

Sincerely yours, I. O. Johnson.

My Dear Friend:

For your specific problem I recommend a plan which has been successfully used by countless millions of young men throughout the world—make a gift!

A miniature cedar chest would perhaps be nice. All that is needed is a discarded picture frame, a picture of yourself, a knife and a tree. First, with the use of the knife, hew the tree into a horizontal position, taking care to severely lash the first and third fingers on the left hand in the procedure.

Next, carve out a block of seasoned wood, about 6 by 10 inches in size and hollow the center to form a box-like structure. Then fashion a crude lid for the affair. In the center of this cover mount the framed picture of yourself.

The picture itself can be used as a book mark while the box itself will constitute a handy first aid kit.

Constructively yours, Phil Osopher.

No one is useless in this world, who lightens the burden of another.

On their side of the Asian perimeter, the Communists were busily promising to restore and re-fortify battered North Korea — plainly showing that they have no intention of yielding it to a unified all-Korean government at the peace table.

Last September, Russia granted $250 million towards North Korea's "recovery." Last week Red China agreed to send $317 million in "coal, cloth, cotton, grain, building materials, communications equipment, metal products, machinery, agricultural tools, fishing boats, paper and other daily necessities of the people."

Red-China also agreed to cancel North Korea's war debts incurred up to next Jan. 1 (apparently a way of saying that North Koreans must pay occupation costs after that) and to "Facilitate civil air transport between the Soviet Union and Korea," by letting a Soviet-Korean airline cross her territory.

On hand in Peking for the signing of this agreement, besides Mao Tse-tung and North Korea's Premier Kim Il Sung, was a Russian named V. V. Vaskov.

Those who look for friction between Mao and Malenkov regard North Korea, as well as Manchuria, as potential abrasives. The State Department's current reading is that many more interests unite the Communist rulers of the two big nations than divide them, and that China is not a satellite of the Soviet Union (like Bulgaria, Rumania, etc.) but a partner—a decidedly junior partner.

SPORTS SLANTS

By Smitty

Did you know that we have a Junior Varsity Basketball team as well as a varsity? Did you know that they've played as many games as the varsity? Their record as of now stands at two wins and two losses but both losses were by a narrow margin.

A little cheering and boosting might have made the difference between victory and defeat. Let's get behind the JVs this year and help them have the best season possible.

Intramural ball is about the best we have seen in that department in several years. Especially good looking are the Olys and the ADPs, having been strengthened by ex-varsity stars.

College high took the spotlight last week by nearly dumping Meridian High School at Meridian. Leading until the last quarter, the Trojans slipped and settled for a three point loss.

Olympians, Pre-season Favorites, Take Lead in Intramural Basketball Race

Considering that Meridian is an "A" league school, it was a moral victory for the Trojans. Virgil Vail is doing a splendid piece of work that only experience can improve. Good luck, fellows!

Oh boy! New bleachers in college gym. No more sitting on feet—no more knees in your back. Monty claims they'll be so comfortable that he will have to hire a person to tickle the spectators to keep them awake—even at real exciting games. A tip of the hat to the administration for this much-needed improvement. Anatomy wins out at last.

A big trouble about this writing business is that by the time it appears in print a lot of changes can take place. What we're referring to is the four-game winning streak of the varsity ball club. We'll just take it by faith and say it now stands at five wins—no losses. Don't embarrass me, boys.

Mickey Dean, playing one of his best games, set a rebound record against BJC last week. Dean recovered 23 loose balls to snap Harold Weber's total of 14 set last year. The sports department is offering a free milkshake and hamburger to the varsity player who beats Mick's mark.

Except for throwing snowballs, this just about covers the sports activities around the campus.

The pre-season favorites, the Olys, got off to a good start in the intramural basketball schedule by winning their first two games. They began by bumping off the LSPs, 44-20, with Norm Crofford getting 12 points for honors in that department. Then in the battle of the winners, the Olys subdued the SLAs, as Paul Anderson and Len Back, with 12 points apiece, led the way to a 45-22 victory.

ADPs Win—Forfeit
In the second game on Tuesday, the ADPs rolled up about a 30-point lead over the SLAs, only to find that they had used a player on the bench, and so had to forfeit the game, 2-0. The final score was 65-36, but all to no avail. Then in the battle of the losers, the ADPs, led by Merv Gale and Jim Harris, with 31 and 25 points respectively, rolled up a 79-46 score over the LSPs. This is the largest score of the year so far. All was not so bad for the LSPs, as Jim Gilson dumped in 17 points for his side.

These results leave the Olys in first place with two wins, the ADPs and SLAs tied for second, and the LSPs last, having lost their first two games.

ADP Girls Down SLAs In 18-14

After a 10-9 defeat by the Oly girls in the annual basketball jamboree, the ADPs rebounded with a 18-14 victory over the LSAs to set this semester's pace. Martha Hopkins led the winning team with a total of 12 points to her credit, while Dola Smith made eight points for the losers.

The LSPs continued to mark up victories by beating the Olys 24-18 in the second game. High scorer for the LSPs was Sharon Finkbeiner with 17, followed closely by Olympian Sally Cole who scored 14 points.

The winning teams were pitted against each other in the first game Friday at four o'clock. The LSPs had a slight edge with two victories to their credit while the ADPs have one win and one loss. Results were unknown at press time.

Student Body Selects Larson, Farr, Cramer and Cole As '53-'54 Cheerleaders

Bruce Larson, Harvey Farr, Lois Cramer and Sally Cole were selected by the student body at the Nov. 28 jamboree as cheerleaders for this basketball season.

Larson, a freshman from Medford, Ore., is an ADP. Farr is also a freshman who comes from Modesto, Calif. He claims the Olympians as his society and serves as society cheerleader.

Lois Cramer, also an Oly, is a Nampa resident. She is a second semester freshman. The only sophomore on the team is Sally Cole, an Oly, who transferred from Washington State College at Pullman, Wash. Her home is in Walla Walla.

In addition to leading cheers at the games, the group will work with Wilbur Harris in securing half-time entertainment.

There is so much good in the worst of us, and so much bad in the best of us, that it hardly behooves any of us to talk about the rest of us.

Crusaders Trounce Boise Junior College

The Crusaders, playing one of their best games this season, set Boise Junior College back to the tune of 69-51. High point man for the game was BJC's Jim Hill, with flashy Paul Bynum, NNC guard close on his heels with 14 tallies.

Mickey Dean set a rebound record of 23 as well as pouring 11 points through the hoop just behind Capt. Finkbeiner who potted twelve.

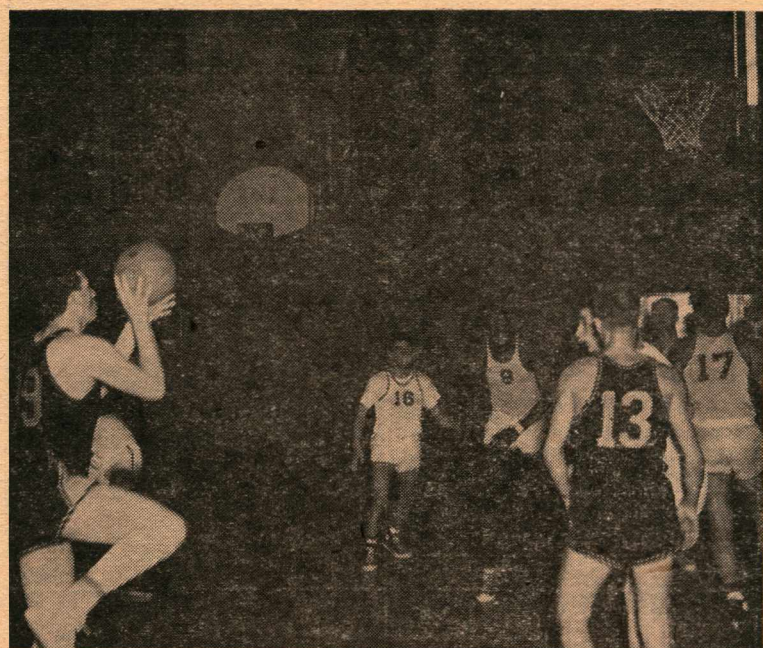

Moving out front from the start of the game, NNC was never in serious trouble except in the third quarter, for which the Crusaders are famous, when the Broncos narrowed the gap to five points. Catching fire at that point, the NNC quint coasted through the remainder of the game, adding 17 tallies in the final quarter.

LSPs Take First In Annual Jamboree

Topping the other three societies, the LSPs came out on top to take first place in the annual basketball jamboree Nov. 28. The Olys, ADPs and SLAs placed 2nd, 3rd and 4th, respectively.

Led by spark plug Joe Michel, cheerleader, they outdid their fellow contestants in decorations, sportsmanship and enthusiasm.

Big Bob Cantonwine prepares to shoot in the NNC-C. of I. basketball game held at C. of I. Dec. 8. Led by R. C. Owens, No. 9, NNC received a drubbing, 86-54. This was the first loss to four wins for the Crusaders.

Jamboree Victories Go To Olys, SLAs In Boys' Basketball

The fast, rugged SLAs, and the tall, mighty Olys, emerged as the victors in the men's section of Jamboree games. The SLAs poured it on the LSPs, whipping them into submission, 50-21. Marvin Emrich was high point man in this fray, collecting 10 counters. He was followed by Les Chambers with 9, while Wayne Aller and Gary Lund each had seven points.

The Olys, led by Paul Anderson with 13 points, were able to down the ADPs in a hard-fought contest, 44-30. The ADPs drew close at intervals but were not able to completely close the gap. Following Anderson in point-making was Len Back with 11, while Russ Miller was high for the purple and gold, slipping in 12 counters.

Five FTA Members Chosen To Represent NNC at Boise IEA Delegate Assembly

Five members of the E. E. Angell Chapter of the FTA were selected by ballot, at the November meeting, to represent NNC at the Idaho Education Association Delegate Assembly which will be held in Boise in the spring.

Those named were Joe Keen, Carlton Bryson, Della Mae Reed, Art Manchester and Lois Tracy. Alternates include Betty Bradford, Joe Michel, Dora Lee Mitchell, Elsa Lou Slack and Henry Maas.

Speaker for the evening was Dr. John Booth, executive secretary of the IEA. He emphasized the importance of professional standards in the profession, in addition to making a survey of the legislative measures in Idaho pertaining to teachers and teaching.

Dr. Booth has had many years' experience in teaching and administration, and is well qualified to fill his present position within the I. E. A.

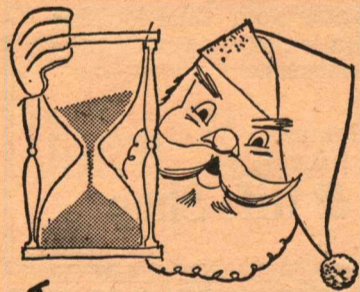

Scriblerus Group Studies "Pygmalion"

Would you like to be a duchess? It's not very hard—according to Shaw's "Pygmalion"—so the Scriblerus members discovered at their last meeting.

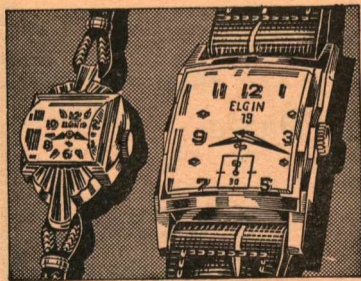

Joe Keen presented this outstanding play in form of summaries, spot passages, and critical analysis to the members who were gathered at the home of Lyndol Pullen.

Following the play analysis there was a general discussion period in which everyone gave his own opinion of the play and the playwright. Miss Washburn informed the club of Shaw's theory of the superiority of women and showed how this was borne out in the feminine lead of "Pygmalion."

Plans were made for further programs. The next will be held Jan. 21, 1954. The club extends a cordial invitation to anyone interested in good literature.

Gamma Nu Gamma Initiates Are Pinned During Xmas Party

Five initiates were pinned at the Dec. 2 meeting of Gamma Nu Gamma which was held at the home of Mrs. Rose Voget in the form of a Christmas party.

The new associate members who gained admission to the group by acquiring 100 points through participating in intramural sports on the campus, are Betty Gatherer, Neva Templeman, Lois Cramer, Elsie Armstrong and Margaret McClung.

Club members decided to sponsor lights for the new ice arena as the project of the group for the year. Finances will be obtained by selling concessions at the basketball games, operating a concession stand at the ice arena and sponsoring a rummage sale. At the Dec. 5 game with BJC, the initiates received donations for the project.

Following the business session, the members exchanged white elephant gifts and received refreshments.

Marshall Scientists Observe Christmas Season With Party

The approaching Christmas season was observed by Marshall Science club members at the conclusion of their meeting Dec. 7. The group sang Christmas carols and participated in the season's games.

Preceding the party was a regular meeting, presided over by Myron Finkbeiner with Wayne Aller introducing the speakers.

Relating to his employment as a chemistry laboratory technician for the Weyerhaeuser Lumber Co., Jim Laws reported on his experiences there.

Mu Epsilon Sigma Holds Study Night

Members of Mu Epsilon Sigma, the college music club, observed a study night in place of the regular meeting last week. Classical records were played while the group studied.

Darlene Gentry and Jeni Lee Ray will present an opera study at the next meeting.

Business Club Members Stage Christmas Party

Members of the Business Club held their annual Christmas party Dec. 7 in the recreation room of the Ralph Parsons home.

The evening was spent in listening to records and playing games under the direction of Sam Scammon.

Game prizes were won by Donna Murray, Phillis Hartley, Betty Waller and Marvin Emrich. Refreshments were served by Jean Wilson and Pat Nine.

The last meeting of the semester will be held during January. Members of the Boise chapter of NOMA will be guests.

Take Field Trip

In place of the regular November meeting, club members enjoyed a field trip to Boise.

Circle "K" Luncheon Discussion Centers Around Ice Arena

Discussion at the recent Circle "K" luncheon centered around the tentative ice arena now that the weather is turning colder.

Concrete forms have been poured and the lower end has been built up. The major problem now is finances.

Cliff Taylor, NNC senior, provided entertainment at the luncheon in form of slight of hand tricks and his talking doll, Teddy.

Don Edwards was introduced as a new club member and Mr. A. J. Finkbeiner as faculty guest.
