

THANKSGIVING SEASON TO BE CLIMAXED BY BANQUET, PLAY

Tomorrow will mark another traditional Thanksgiving at Northwest Nazarene College. Celebrated nationally as a holiday which accents the family group, Thanksgiving is always well-celebrated on the NNC campus where family-style living is the pattern.

Breakfast will be served late and students will turn their attention to the Thanksgiving athletic events and the union Thanksgiving church service which will be held in the First Christian Church this year.

High-lighting the afternoon will be the annual Thanksgiving Banquet at 4 o'clock in Morrison Dining Room. This event is sponsored by the Associated Women Students. Jo Ann Wilcox, AWS president, has announced that Dr. Gilbert Ford will be featured speaker for the dinner this year. True to custom, the banquet theme will not be announced until the guests have gathered for this festive occasion.

AWS council members heading dinner committees are: Virginia Horne, program; Bobbi Duke, table decorations; Wilma Hokanson, programs and place cards, and Barbara Urwin, ticket sales. Charlotte Girrard is in charge of seating arrangements and decorations have been planned by Vi Jahn, Lynn Riley, LaDonna Nafziger and Wiladean Barber.

Following the dinner students will visit with friends and visiting relatives until time to get their seats for "Love Is Eternal," society play to be presented in the chapel auditorium. The curtain is scheduled to go up at 8:15 for this production adapted from Irving Stone's best-selling biographical novel about Mary Todd Lincoln.

School will "keep" on Friday and students will attend their Friday classes well-fortified with roast turkey and memories of a Thanksgiving Day almost like those at home.

Holiday Visitors To Be On Campus

Visiting on the NNC campus this week-end will be two alumni and former professors, Miss Ethel Allison and Miss Mary Shaffer. They are now teaching at Pasadena College and will be driving to Nampa for the Thanksgiving holiday. They will be accompanied by Shirley Thompson, former NNC student, Carol Allen, formerly on the music faculty at NNC and Miss Dorothy Dyckman, business instructor at Pasadena.

Miss Allison was valedictorian of her graduating class at NNC and was on the faculty for a number of years as professor of elementary education. While in Nampa she was active in state education circles and was an officer in the Northwest Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development. She was elected to membership in Delta Kappa Gamma, national education honorary, and was national secretary for Phi Delta Lambda, scholastic honorary. She is now on the education faculty at Pasadena College.

Miss Shaffer taught art at NNC last year as a replacement for Miss Dorothy Long, who was on leave of absence to do further graduate work. Prior to coming to NNC, Miss Shaffer taught art and music at Kuna High School. Her music groups at Kuna won state acclaim. She is now a professor in the art department at Pasadena.

Miss Allison, Miss Shaffer, Miss Dyckman and Miss Thompson plan to be on the campus Friday. Plans have been made for their entertainment in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bittleston, Elaine Carlson, Miss Washburn and Dr. Culver while they are here.

"Messiah" To Be Presented Dec. 9

NNC's traditional presentation of Handel's "Messiah" is scheduled for College Church on the evening of December 9th.

Prof. Warnie T. Tippit, "Messiah" director, said today:

"We are rehearsing from 6:45 to 8:00 p. m. every Tuesday in College Church. We are extending an invitation to any who would like to sing with us to come to these practices."

Prof. John M. Eby will be handling the orchestration this year with Alline M. Swann and Double E. Hill as accompanists. Soloists for the "Messiah" will be announced later.

FMB CONDUCTS SPECIAL SERVICE

Members of the NNC Foreign Missions Band presented a program in the Church of the Nazarene in Marsing on Sunday, November 11.

Marilyn Bird, FMB president, was in charge of the group and arranged the special missionary service.

Esther Shroeder led the singing and special music was furnished by a trio consisting of Loree Sanders and Esther and Joan Schroeder. Ina Smith and Loree Sanders were special speakers.

THREE GIRLS ARE PAJAMA WINNERS

Helen Franklin, Marg Clay and Hiroko Okita emerged as prize winners at the annual A.W.S. pajama party.

Those attending the affair were divided into four groups: "The Nightmares," "The Dream Girls," "The Sleepwalkers," and the "Cattappers." Contests and stunts were organized with these groups.

Entertainment for the evening was arranged by LaDonna Nafziger and included a reading by Jan Johnson and music by Betty Haynes, Norma Dean, Marva Lund, Joyce Rankin, Pansy Martin and Velma Wright.

Devotions were led by Miss Rhodes as the girls gathered around the fireplace in Morrison parlor.

Refreshments consisted of sandwiches and hot chocolate.

Those in attendance voted the party one of the best of the current school year.

Treble Choir Will Be Featured Dec. 6

Miss Helen Wilson, NNC publicity director, said today that Mrs. Waller and the Treble Choir will be featured on the NNC telecast slated for December 6 on Channel Two. The program is from 2:30 to 3:30. Also featured on the telecast will be Clarence Kinzler and Del Gish.

Dr. Alvin Aller Has Booklet Published

A scientific article written by Dr. Alvin R. Aller, chairman of the division of mathematics and natural science at NNC, has been published in booklet form recently by the University of Notre Dame at Notre Dame, Indiana.

The article was reprinted from the October, 1956, issue of The American Midland Naturalist. The title of the article is: "A Taxonomic and Ecologic Study of the Flora of Monument Peak, Oregon."

According to the article: "Two seasons, 1947 and 1948, were spent in the area collecting, observing, identifying and making statistical analyses. Determinations of species were made from fresh material in most instances. However, all species were collected and preserved in the author's private herbarium. Duplicates of the collections are on file at the Oregon State College Herbarium at Corvallis, Oregon."

PROF. REEVES TALKS TO CMA

"How Big Is Your God," was the subject of a talk given to the C.M.A. last Tuesday night by Prof. Reeves. Speaking to a group of 30 members he emphasized the importance of believing in a God big enough to handle the problems that ministerial students would encounter in the pastorate. The speaker urged the importance of a God big enough to cope with the sin problem and a God big enough for the social evils of our day. In conjunction with this thought, he presented a relatively new emphasis on the part a pastor should take in civic activities and combating the social ills of his community. It was the belief of the speaker that today's ministers should take a more active interest in these activities and should try to help their congregations to see the need of Christian laymen taking a stand against such problems.

During the business meeting plans were laid for sending a number of ministerial students to the annual Berkeley conference held in the spring at Berkeley, California.

Coach Hills is shown briefing the Crusader varsity on some of the strategy to be used this Saturday against the Westminster five.

Herva Nelli, dramatic soprano of Metropolitan Opera and other companies, will be featured in the first civic music concert to be held in the chapel on Monday, December 3, at 8:15 p. m.

Only those who have civic music memberships will be admitted to the concert.

Double E. Hill, chairman of the division of fine arts, said today that during her career Herva Nelli has been soloist with the N.B.C. orchestra under the direction of Toscanini. She has been presented with them six times in concerts as well as on recordings and radio.

She has also been guest soloist at Grant Park and Lewisohn Stadium. Prof. Hill quoted Harriet Johnson of the New York Post as saying:

"Nelli's limpid soprano has a beautiful aerial quality which soars easily into the higher register and expresses a moving pathos when she wishes it for her lower notes."

"We are looking forward to hearing Herva Nelli," concluded Mr. Hill.

Intramural Trophy Case Is Installed

Plans made by last year's athletic-literary council have culminated this year in the installation of an intramural trophy case in the lower hall of the administration building.

The new case is divided into six sections, one each for the campus athletic-literary societies. ADP, Athenian and LSP society trophies have been placed in the east case with OLY, SLA and Spartan trophies on the west side.

Orrin E. Hills, athletic-literary council director, says that plans are now under consideration for purchasing trophies for the winners in society sports, team sports and literary contests including plays. These trophies would not be permanent awards but would be rotated from section to section according to the winners.

Library Receives Improvements

Students will find the library better equipped to serve them this year with the addition of 101 new periodicals and more professional staff help. Since the close of school last year and the present time more than 1500 carefully selected, new books have been added to enrich the curriculum and supplement and extend the teaching process with reference courses. Books of a recreational nature have been supplied for students who like to relax with a good book. The faculty and librarians are seriously trying to provide books of all types for the variety of students enrolled at NNC.

Along with furnishing better books and more periodicals, the librarians are trying to give better reference and bibliographic service. Students are urged to consult the librarians any time they cannot find the material needed. The staff will appreciate any suggestions and constructive criticism which will result in a better library for NNC.

Thinking Season

With the annual pre-mature arrival of the Montgomery Ward (or Sears Roebuck if you are prejudiced) Christmas Catalog, we embark upon the Holiday Season. Each year we are encouraged to take seriously the message of the holiday. This year, among all years, we should heed this plea.

In this time of tension and almost unbearable pressure we should consider just what is ultimately important. During these times when the momentary whim of a drunken dictator or selfish desires of a power-hungry leader could wipe away all that has been our life and destroy all that we value in this world, we should give thought to God's deepest blessings in our lives, and strive to escape all the trivial considerations.

What is basically important to you? Your faith in God? Suppose you had not been so fortunate as to be born in America and could not have had the knowledge of God in your heart to sustain you in times of trial. Think of the material blessings God has bestowed upon us. Shoes to wear, a warm place to sleep, adequate food (even dining hall students must admit this), all these simple, but necessary, things. Those who know love and security of companionship should truly thank God for those blessings which are so important to our mental well-being.

The knowledge of God, necessary material means, and love are the most important basic things. Some would disagree, but let us remember to thank God for these things, not only during this season but always. In such moments it is good to forget the trivial ambitions, peevish, and problems. This should be the season for thinking, not of things of the moment, but things of eternity.

"Lute Song"—A Review

By HANNAH GILBERT WEST

"Lute Song" afforded an evening of top entertainment for those who saw it. The reviewer finds that this is an instance where compliments are more plentiful than criticisms—although there are some definite criticisms.

First honors go to the three play directors who must have spent hours in the preparation of such an ambitious production. For "Lute Song" was replete with marks of good direction. One outstanding example of this came in the "mob scenes". These scenes went so smoothly—every extra seemed to know just what to do and where to go. This kind of "know-how" doesn't just happen. It represents careful planning and hard work on the part of directors and extras alike. Good direction was seen also in the way the cast held steady while some characters reached for their lines. This, by the way, is one of the main criticisms of the play: some players just didn't know their lines well enough.

Next in order are kudos to those in charge of costumes, staging and sound effects. The costumes were gorgeous and the staging and sound effects contributed to proper setting and atmosphere.

The action of the play moved too slowly—criticism number two. Dialogue might have been speeded up had actors known their lines better. Another thing: the constant drawing of the curtain and long waits between some scenes made the play drag a bit. Would it not have been better to keep the curtains open and let those efficient stage hands shift scenery in full view of the audience? This has been done effectively.

As for the players.

First honors go to Prince Nieou for a completely convincing characterization. Following hard upon his heels are Tsai Yong and Tchoa-ou-Niang. The young scholar played his part with rare restraint. Although a bit wooden at the beginning of the play, the young wife soon warmed to her role and gave a convincing performance. The holy man and the two temple priests were excellent. In fact, this reviewer would nominate the funeral and temple scenes as best in the play. The pace in the temple scene was excellent.

Tsai and his wife were very capable in their portrayals. The princess looked lovely and gave a most sympathetic performance. Si-Tchun, Li Wang and Yoen-Kong were extremely able in minor roles. The marriage broker was delightful in her characterization and the imperial chamberlain was pompously convincing. The stage manager looked his part and seemed to be attempting to give a sincere portrayal but—it just didn't hit the mark as it should have. He did not seem to be as much at ease as his fellow-actors. His performance was just above average. If he had played every scene as he did the funeral scene he would have been in line for commendation.

So many in the cast stood out in moments of excellence: the beggar woman in the crowd at the temple; the two soldiers who stood by the royal portal with such magnificent immobility; the little beggar girl; the cute little beggar boy who shuffled back and forth across the stage with such solemnity!

All in all; this reviewer found "Lute Song" an experience long to be remembered.

King basketball will begin his reign for another intramural season Saturday, December 1, when all twelve society cage teams see action in the annual basketball jamboree.

A wide open race has been forecast in both girls' and boys' divisions. These were won by the ADPs and SLAs respectively last semester.

Judging for the jamboree will be based on sportsmanship, enthusiasm, decorations and half-time entertainment.

The halftime skits are to be only five minutes long. The order for the skits is SLAs, OLYs, LSPs, Athenians, and ADPs.

The gym will be divided according to the diagram below.

TROJAN TALK

By MARY ELLEN EVERIST

Last week the football season was officially closed when the Pep Club gave the annual football party. The selection of the captain, co-captain, and most inspirational player was kept secret until the party, when Coach John Finkbeiner revealed the outcome. "N" Club president, Harold Stoner, was named captain; Bob Cook, a senior fullback, co-captain; and Eldon Wilson, senior class president, most inspirational player.

In connection with the "most inspirational player" award, Trojan coaches John Finkbeiner and Cec Campbell will present a trophy which will be kept from year to year.

With the coming of basketball season, many things have to be done. Among them the election of J.V. cheerleaders, which was done last week. Naomi Alexander, Ona

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By DAVE JACKSON

Basketball will ride high as another season gets under way with the annual Tip-Off. With great hopes and expectations the Crusader fans will fill the seats at Central Auditorium Saturday evening, November 24, to see this year's opening game.

In the past few weeks one of the most talked about subjects, other than "How did you do on your tests?", is "What do you think are the prospective hopes for the 1956-57 Crusader basketball team's season outlook?" This question is one that only time can answer. With 28 games on schedule, Coach Orrin Hills will have a chance to show what can be done with the material that he has for this year's team. Of these 28 games, eleven will be played at home in Central Auditorium. One, a non-conference game, will be played in College Gym against the Plainsmen from Mountain Home Air Base, during Christmas vacation.

Discussion Is Held On Social Security

Mr. Don Wessels, assistant to Dr. Willingham and Executive Secretary of the Department of Ministerial Benevolence visited the campus last Monday. During his stay he met with the ministerial students and discussed with them the problem of social security, helping them to know just what part the minister had in social security.

the line of the holiday entertainment. In the "Turkey Bowl" game, the annual custom has been to play "tackle" football. Last year, due to the weather, the sport was changed to a basketball scrimmage. This year it will be changed back to football, but of a different type. This is due to the lack of equipment and of time for proper conditioning. Therefore, flag-football has been chosen for this year's holiday contest.

The usual line-up has been a contest between the societies. This, also has been changed. The championship team in the intramural competition will play the All-stars, which are chosen from the separate grid squads. No doubt there will be a few of the contestants who were chosen from the winning team but in this case, the alternates will take their place and they will play for their own team.

Another item that is an intramural subject, is society basketball. The young ladies of the campus begin their games on Friday, the 23rd of November. And the boys will open their league one week after Thanksgiving, November 29. Two days following this opening the Basketball Jamboree will be presented in College Gym, December 1.

The College High Trojans finished their football season with a 5 win - 3 loss record. Under coaches John Finkbeiner and Cecil Campbell the high school grid squad showed lots of fight for their size and lost only two "heartbreaking" thrillers.

TROJANS OPEN DEC. 7; PROSPECTS LOOK GOOD

Jordan Valley will be the first opponent for College High's basketball squad this year. The two fives will clash December 7, on the Trojan's home court.

Coach Don Boyd termed prospects for the coming season as "fair" pointing out that the club should improve with experience since most of the players are new.

Returning from last year's team are Allen Lair and Llyod Thompson. Others trying for positions on the team include: Bob Cook, Jack Whaley, Bill Parsons, Jim Jackson, John Reed, John Dyer, Eldon Wilson, Kayo Rhodes, Deo Holtry, Harold Stoner, and Bill Manley.

The Trojans will play approximately 20 games during the regular season.

SPLINTERS FROM THE BENCH

By JACK WRIGHT

For a while it seemed NNC would have to cancel all its games and adjourn to Samaritan Hospital for a wheelchair game with the crippled veterans! However, "Silent Sam's" shoulder is coming along nicely and both Finkbeiner and Stueckle have stopped hobbling too badly.

Now that Coach "Tiger" Hills has cut the squad things are beginning to take shape. A few less "NO!, NO!, NO!s" (with appropriate gestures) and a few more "that's it" are being drawn from the lips of NNC's fire-eating coach.

REMARK OF THE WEEK: Bob Willard to the Junior Varsity; "I don't want to confuse you, I just want you to think."

Oldsters tell me that they can't remember the last time a JV team has been able to defeat the Alumni. College church also has a double whammy on JV teams - this year Coach Willard is going to try to even the score.

Also back from the ailing list is our erstwhile custodian of the bucket - Jerry Deathridge. Jerry is over his cold and should be in rare form come November 24th.

ON THE HUNTING SCENE: Wandering into Ron Huntington's room, I noticed the pheasant feathers were only knee deep—seems Ron's hound dog—"Ole Reliable"—has a complex. He thinks he's a cocker spaniel; Prof. Leupp has been psychoanalyzing him but is unsuccessful so far. Seated in the barber chair—that's right—barber chair—was Jerry "Dead Eye" Caven. "Cleaning Pheasants," says I? Jerry in his affable, friendly way replies, "What do they look like—mountain lions?" Waving goodbye to Ole Reliable and stepping over assorted duck, pheasant and quail feathers I asked Ron when he was going to get rid of his mutt? "Can't," says Ron, "he's the only

The first semester volley ball season is over after a very interesting and well-played season. During the progression of the season the quality of ball improved and the games each took on an importance that it "was anybody's ball game." The ADPs copped the championship with good, steady playing. Each member on the team came out to every ball game. We often hear about the star of the game but many times we overlook the people who add just as much by their being at almost every game and playing steady ball. The ADPs had a good group of these players in Louise Weitman, Mary Ann Kimball, Jo Horton, Roxie Hull, Wanda Moore, and Eunice Hodges. Each played her position well and they were major reasons why the ADPs ended up on top.

The LSPs showed adequate reason for their being the number two team—good spiking, good serving, and plenty of spirit.

Each game the SLAs were out to win and they played to win. A team that can explode at any time bringing an upset is one that is feared in spite of their record. All the four bottom teams were of this quality with plenty of potential that could bring victory in almost any game. We would like to salute players on these teams who were out to most of their games and played a good, steady game, in the opinion of this reporter.

To all of you, we say, thanks for one around here who can beat me at checkers."

Together they should make some pretty good basketball music for NNC.

NNC Cage Season To Open Saturday Night

The arrival of NNC's major sport is just around the corner, and with it come the returning lettermen from last year's team. In the following paragraphs these returning lettermen will be named and given a short, descriptive preview.

CLARENCE KINZLER: As a senior, he is making this his fourth year on the Crusader team. Clari, a 21-year-old six-foot-four center tips the scales at 185. He is noted for his calmness and his team spirit. Also, Clari is "N" Club president, single, and is a speech major preparing for the ministry.

DUANE PEPELY: Another senior with three previous years of varsity ball backing him, is Duane. "Pep" stands six-foot-two and is a guard who has a variety of effective shots. He is one of Nampa's own products with a great deal of past experience in high school. While at Nampa High, Duane placed in the top ten at state tournament making the Idaho All-Star team. "Pep," a single man, is an education major, with plans for coaching in secondary schools. Last year he held the highest percentage on the team in free-throws, 76.6%.

DUNAE STUECKLE: A two-year letterman and the shortest member of the team is a 5'8" scrappy guard who hails from Colfax, Washington. "Hank," as he is better known by the NNC students, is noted for his ball handling and fast dribbling. He is still single, plans to do wheat farming upon completion of his education.

ARNIE FINKBEINER: At the position of guard you will find him a tough defensive player, a good ball handler, and a fast dribbler. Arnie earned his letter before serving four years in Uncle Sam's Navy. He has had past experience in high school and is an education major, with chief interests directed in physical education.

DAN MARTIN: This year 6'1" Dan enters his second season in college varsity experience as a guard. He comes from the neighboring town of Parma, Idaho, where he had training in high school ball. Dan is 20 years of age, and is a history major.

TOM TRACY: From the state of Washington comes a 6' guard. Tom is fast and has a left-handed jump shot that is deadly. He was an asset to the Crusader team last season and will also be this year. Tom was outstanding in high school as an athlete and is single.

SAM WILLARD: Returning to the Crusader squad this year is Sam, who was selected as North Dakota's top college basketball prospect in his high school experience. Outstanding are his slick, timely passes and his good ball handling. Sam is single, has quite a sense of humor, and has chosen teaching as a career. As a guard or forward, Sam is all over the floor and backboards.

DAVE GARDNER: After lettering in his freshman year at Lewis and Clark College, Dave came to NNC as a starter first semester. He is a good driver and favors hook shots. He is very accurate in his shooting. Dave stands 6'4", is married, and plays forward or center. He has chosen business as his major field.

There is a bright future in store for this year's basketball team. The Crusaders not only have last year's returning lettermen, but a number of junior varsity veterans, a few transfers, and some prospective freshmen.

The Crusaders' schedule will get underway with the first game on the 24th of November.
